MORE CHECKS FOUND BAD

STILL OTHERS HELD IN SECRET FOR TIME BEING.

Brown Seems to Have Enjoyed a Carnival of His Own Here.

Again a new prank of the crook, William Brown has come to light. Yesterday it was discovered that he had forged Charles Dunn's name to another check and had passed this on John Rogers of the Blue Front saloon on Jefferson avenue the same night as that on which he had passed the check at the Queen restaurant. This check was also for the sum of $10.

The description of the man is such that if he is ever apprehended there will be no trouble in his identification. His distinguishing mark was a woman's figure tattooed on his lower arm. He is of medium height, and medium weight and complexion. That there is another forger in the vicinity is known and has been announced to Sheriff Childers by one of the local banks, who has two bad checks in his possession. The particulars are not made public as yet.
