SOCIETY.

At 8 o'clock Thanksgiving morning South. M. P. Spencer of Wenatchee, Washington,—who has been identified this city, M. P. Spencer of Wenatchee, there for years, among them the business manager of a newspaper and at one time assessor of Chelan county—was married to Miss Grace T. Turman of the Welver Hardware Company, Nanticoke, Penn. The bride is a niece of Rev. F. M. Canfield of this city. The happy couple took the train soon after the ceremony, leaving for Portland, where they will spend a week or two and thence go to California for several month's sojourn. On their return they will go to Wenatchee to occupy a beautiful home which the groom is preparing for their future abode.

The initial party of a series of three to be given by the La Vieillesse club, will be held tonight. The event will attract more than a half hundred guests and one of the chief social features of the winter is anticipated. There are about 35 hosts and hostesses.

WANTED—Chickens, ducks, turkeys. We pay the highest market price. Call Grande Ronde Cash Company, Main 6.

LOCAL PLAYHOUSES

AT THE PASTIME.

Last evening at the Pastime for the first time, Polly Primrose that ever popular and pleasing southern comedy drama was presented to a large house which was so well pleased that the chances are that if you want a seat you may have to go early tonight. It is indeed exceptionally clever.

At The Scenic.

Everything is changed at the Scenic aside from the team work. This change of moving pictures is in a class by themselves. The Edison people were indeed fortunate when they secured Madam Pilar Marine who has made the voiceless drama a life study. "The Villain Still Persues Him," is another strong picture. Remember the live baby is given away Sunday night. Every ticket gives the holder a chance at the drawing.
