"Human Hearts."

The story of "Human Hearts," that beautiful poetical play of the simple life of the homely folk of rural Arkansas, deals with the happenings of Honest Tom Logan, the village blacksmith. Tom dwells with his parents in a picturesque spot of the Arkansas hills. There, he is pursuing his vocation, living a simple honest life, the mainstay of his old parents, beloved by all who know him and respected above his fellows. On a certain unlucky day, there came to the village a beautiful woman; a temptress, unprincipled and black at heart, but with a fascination that proved to be the undoing of Poor Tom Logan. He immediately proceeded to fall in love with her, asked her to marry him and she became his wife. Happy in his fancied security, Tom lavished all the affection on the woman that was possible to an honest heart like his, but it was not returned.

One day there appears on the scene a villain, the former lover of the woman, who commits a cowardly murder and with the assistance of the woman fastens the crime on Tom, who is tried and convicted for the crime of another. Tom is sentenced to state prison for life, and the villainous pair congratulate themselves that they have not only gotten rid of him but have secured immunity from the law for themselves. But providence has been watching over the blacksmith and unseen influences are at work to thwart their plan. Humble friends of Tom do not forget him and their endeavors to bring the case to the notice of the governor of Arkansas are finally successful. The villains are unmasked and Tom is proven innocent. The play is pathetic and one with many thrilling scenes, but there is a very strong comedy vein running through it which gives the necessary contrast.

Manager Nankville has provided a most adequate stage investiture for the play and has engaged an admirable company for its portrayal.

"Human Hearts" will play an engagement on Monday, November 29, at the Steward opera house.
