ALL-STAR TEAM NAMED

CAREFUL STUDY OF PLAYERS RESULTS IN APPENDED LIST.

Pendleton Has Less men than Others On the Allstar Team.

1909 ALL-EASTERN OREGON TEAM.

Myers, L. E.	La Grande
Hunstock, I. G.	Baker City
Bean, C.	La Grande
Gron, R. G.	La Grande
Ingle, R. T.	La Grande
Jordan, R. E.	Pendleton
Kimball, Q. B.	Pendleton
Hall, R. H.	Baker City
Childers, L. H.	La Grande
Devine, F. B.	Pendleton

(By James P. Wall.)

The above team is selected from the players of the Eastern Oregon high schools with the idea of securing an eleven that would be able to play both the old and new styles of football equally as well—one that would be resourceful as well as possessing the ability to make the most of its game.

Myers of La Grande for left end, is one of the best all round football players that this section of the state has produced, being an ideal man for being where the ball is at all times. He is a sensational player but is never looking for a chance to figure in play of that sort, his sensational plays usually being the result of his hard work, as he plays equally hard at all times and is always to be found where he is needed. He can throw or receive forward passes, does more running from his position at end than all the other ends in Eastern Oregon and he is a sure tackler—no player having made a substantial gain against him and this year. Jordan has the call for the other end.

Bean is another of the best players in Eastern Oregon, being a hard worker and a sure tackler. He is a hard player, courageous and can run an end or buck a line with the best of the others. His cleverness in throwing forward passes is another element in his favor. Hall is the next best half, and is a powerful man at running with the ball or heading interference, while his defensive ability is next to none. Devine on his all-round play is entitled to the position of full-back without much question.

Heldenrich, of La Grande, is one of the best tackles of the season but is not as consistent as the other players. Bolton, of La Grande, would have made right end easily but injuries kept him out of most of the important games of the season. Taylor and Oliver of Pendleton Academy, Denham and Wisdom of Baker City, Ingraham of Cove and Stoker of Union are other players deserving of honorable mention.
