Industrial development in Union county is the song of the hour. Industrial pictures which have never been published in La Grande are reproduced today, and from time to time, the Observer will supply these industrial views. They tell a story to eastern friends that letters, no matter how fluently written, cannot duplicate. These same pictures, truthful as they always are, are but glimpses of the varied industries in connection with home life in Union county. An animal industry not represented in photographs, however, is chicken raising, rapidly forging to the front.
