O'BRIEN WRITES THAT NINE ARE ALREADY APPLYING

Salary limit of nine hundred and 4.1-2 months of ball.

Jack O'Brien writes from Walla Walla that success is attending the formation of the Tri-State League. The time is ripe for La Grande to come in if she wishes to "get in on the band wagon," claim Jack. The letter to friends here says in part.

"Now the league I am promoting will undoubtedly be in Class "C" and it is a settled fact that each club securing a franchise in the league, will post a forfeit which shall be in cash and which shall not be less than $1200 and not more than $1500. Now I have at present nine applications and expect six more and cannot say whether it will be a four, six or eight club league. The club's salary limit shall be $900, including playing manager. Perhaps there will be voted a raise to $2000 and a guarantee of four and a half or five months baseball. Furthermore, I am more than anxious to see La Grande and also Baker City, members of the Tri-state League.

Now the field is open to all towns for applications. The first meeting will be held here in Walla Walla on Feb. sixth and seventh, at which meeting the members of the clubs will be selected to form the League. We will then elect a good, capable, and reliable business man as President of the League, who will adhere to the principles and regulations of professional and organized baseball. We will then adopt our schedule for 1910, which we will endeavor to give the people first-class baseball in return for their good, honest cash and send them away well satisfied that they have seen a baseball game. Now in forming the League I am only endeavoring to bring the states of Idaho, Oregon and Washington together and call the same a tri-state League. I am successful everywhere in everything so far and furthermore, I am so surprised to learn that there are so many clubs trying for admission to the league. Still the more the merrier from a public standpoint as well as a commercial and for the patrons of the game. Each city fortunate enough to secure a franchise in the League I can assuredly say will be well sat-

Yours respectfully,
JACK O'BRIEN.
