SHO MEN CHUMMY WITH BOTH THE BIG EXPLORERS

When the Centennial committee of St. Louis, who had in charge that city's recent celebration when the program embraced more novelties than did the Hudson-Fulton celebration in New York, announced they had secured Dr. Cook the discoverer of the North Pole, to give one lecture at a cost of $10,000, people rubbed their eyes and admitted that was going some, but when they learned only by rumor that Dr. Cook would attend a special matinee performance of "The Top of the World" at the Century Theatre, they were not prepared to see a performance halted for 23 actual minutes when the audience discovered Dr. Cook in the recesses of his box. No more popular demonstration has ever been witnessed (save by Theodore Roosevelt) when Bailey and Austin advanced to the box occupied by Dr. Cook, followed by six stalwart chorus boys dressed as Eskimos, who bore a large floral piece representing an Arctic sled, and a team of Eskimo dogs, bearing the inscription, "You Win: we thought it was us," and it most lavishly staged musical performance he had ever seen, and what a pity he and Commander Peary did not know it sooner, so all this arduous controversy could have been avoided.
