We are beginning to realize what it is to live in a fruit country. Not a few hold up their hands with horror upon visiting our grocery stores and note the little dwindled-up apples offered for sale and the prices of each box at $1.25 then seems out of proportion to the quality. Our grocery men are not to blame. All of the commercial fruit has long ago passed out of our hands, out of the hands of the grower and it is not to be had any more. If you want to eat delicious oranges, you want to go to Chicago, not California where the fruit is grown. If you want choice Grande Valley apples you must go to other cities than La Grande or to any other city or town than in this valley. Only the best fruit is in demand for shipment and as a result the inferior qualities remain at home unless we want to pay as much for the apples and buy them at the time unless we are willing to pay as much for the first class articles as outside parties pay.

This is the natural condition in all fruit-growing sections but it is emphasized more forcibly this year than formerly, owing to the fact that each year our fruit is in greater demand.

A review of the records will disclose the fact that not to exceed a score of parents have visited our public school the present year and this is in keeping with the record for many years. We parents have taken it for granted that our school conditions were in keeping with other places and never investigated. Every voter who may have the intention of voting against the present $75,000 bond issue owes it as a duty to himself and the community to personally visit these schools. Inform himself of the present crowded conditions, which will be still greater next year, then he will be in a position to vote intelligently on the subject. There are hundreds of voters who have never been inside of one of our school buildings.

The scientists of Great Britain are saying that they are glad Commander Peary has suggested an American expedition to the South Pole, for it will make England hurry up and supply Lieutenant Henry Shackleton with the ship and supplies he needs for his next trip of exploration.

Hood River several weeks ago, started a campaign for a state normal school but the committee has decided to make no further effort for the present at least.

A $20,000 school building at Chelalis was destroyed by fire this week it caught during the night cause unknown. Total loss.
