M. I. A. WINS OVER "HIGH"

Operating on a horizontal plane just a little above that by force of necessity used by the high school the five, shooting baskets with more adroitness, but not, in the general sense of the word, displaying any distinguishable superiority in all of the phases of the game, The M. I. A. team corralled the basketball championship of the county at the rink last night, when by a very decisive score they overpowered the doughty high school players. The contest was marked with wrangling at the start over the eligibility of a player who it proved was not up to the standard of the other four of the M. I. A. organization, and the contest was commenced under adverse circumstances. Credit is due Referee Woods and Umpire Wagener for the diplomatic manner in which turbulent tempers were held to a placid surface. By rigid enforcement of the rules the game was pulled off with only one or two indications of uncontrolled tempers.

For nearly an hour the well filled house was kept waiting during the settlement of a dispute that ought to have been attended to long before. Pete Jost was the bone of contention. Basing their statement on the fact that he joined the club a month ago and has practiced continuously since, the M. I. A. claimed his eligibility. The player was roundly disputed and compromise was allowed by the high school to allow him to play one half. This was done but his playing was nothing remarkable or even good. His place at center was more efficiently filled by V. Bean in the second half.

The M. I. A. started the scoring and they kept it up, registering a total of 33 points most of which were from field goals and also, nearly all of which were thrown by Ainsworth. His greater strength and height simply meant that when the ball once got into his hands, Earls' shorter stature as entirely insufficient to effectually vie with him, or prevent a basket. His shooting arms were classy, as well. Geddes, the other scoring cog, was held down by Cecil Bolton more effectually because of a more evenly matched height. The highs played on the defensive at all times and never came abreast of their opponents. At the end of the first half the score was four to 16 in favor of the M. I. A. and although the highs got back their shooting eyes for a while in the second half, they could not overtake the leaders who at frequent intervals kept adding to their score. The contest was fast, though not as classy as some seen this year. The high school was at a par with the others in team work at times, but the long reaches of the M. I. A. effectually prevented a systematic manipulation of the ball. Childers electrified the audience with several long throws but Ainsworth on the other hand, negotiated goals at short range from any conceivable angle. Hamilton at center, Childers and Carpy, forwards, Bolton and Earls at guards, constituted the high school lineup and it was not because any of the five misplayed his position that the highs lost. The best team won.

Geddes and Ainsworth, forwards, Jost and V. Bean, center; A. Bean, V. Bean and Wait, guards, comprised the M. I. A. team. It was the guarding of the two Beans in the first half and the goal shooting of Ainsworth that largely was responsible for the long lead taken in that canto.

G. E. Tungsten Lamps Make Electric Light Much Cheaper

They have two and a half times the efficiency of the ordinary carbon lamp hither to in general use. The filament is made of a rare metal called Tungsten, which yields an intense brilliancy at a low cost. In shape and size the bulb is just like any other incandescent lamp. Why not fit a Tungsten lamp for your self? Get one of the 40-watt and use it some where in your house in place of one of your carbon lamps. Then observe the great difference. Note the clear white light exactly twice as brilliant and costing you one fifth less for electricity. General electric Tungsten lamps are destined to displace all others, for both store and house lighting.
