GOVERNOR FOLK A DEEP THINKER

LIKE THE SADDLER COMPANY,
HIS NUMBER GOOD.

Chautauqua program includes one of country's leading men.

Governor Folk, who comes to La Grande with the chautauqua this summer, is a man of wonderful power and influence. More than that he is a wonderful speaker and orator.

Yesterday the Observer told some of the features of the Doctor Saddler company which come as one number of the long program, and to properly describe Governor Folk's ability would be out of the question. But he is a thinker and speaks well what he thinks. Appended are some of the things Folk has said in his speeches, demonstrating the capabilities of his brains.

Lawlessness is anarchy, whether at the top or the bottom of the social scale.

The first duty of a prosecuting officer is to put the scoundrels in jail.

The best way to enforce a law is to get men behind it.

I have confidence in the people; they will do what is right when they know right.

If the people want the reign of the law they can get it but they must fight for it.

When a state's honor is besmirched by unfaithful public servants, it is the people's business to see that every vestige of the power and influence back of these men is destroyed.

If corruption exists anywhere, the people are to blame. What is needed is more of the sort of patriotism that fights for the city, state and the county every day—that will go into battles of peace as well as battles of war.

Every citizen must march under the banner flag of decency or the banner of iniquity.

The man who puts the success of his party above the welfare of his state is a traitor to his state.

He who violates the law is not a Democrat, not a Republican—he is a criminal.

Civilization rests upon the law, and the law rests upon the citizen. The patriotism of peace is often more necessary than the patriotism of war.

The sunlight of publicity is the greatest preventative of corruption. Honesty is not only the best politics, but it is the best politics. Civic depravity cannot exist if the people make up their minds not to permit it. Every law is a blue law if a man wants to break it.

Watching Irrigation Fund

Seattle, April 7.—The bill now in congress providing for the issue of $30,000,000 in certificates to raise the funds for completing the projects of the reclamation service that are now being held up for want of money, is being watched with close attention by the people of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, because much of the money, if congress consents to raise it, will be spent in these three states. The bill has already passed the senate and is in the hands of the lower house, which will probably act on it within the month.

During the past two or three years the reclamation service has planned and begun some of the largest irrigation projects yet undertaken in the West, and almost every case has been prevented from completing them by lack of funds. For example, the irrigated area of Klickitat and Yakima counties in Eastern Washington will be doubled if the projects now under way are completed. Similar conditions exist in all of the North-western states. The delegations in congress from these states are all devoting much energy toward passing this bill through congress. The wealth of these states will be increased by much more than the amount expended if the bill passes. The other part of the West will receive similar help.
