RAILROAD NEWS

Rumor has it that three engines from the Baldwin works are en route to La Grande. They are said to be of the 350 class, there seems to be no way to verify the report.

That modern invention known as the Thermut weld, is being worked in the local shops today. Frame of 365 is broken and the way of welding it is being tried. Large crucible is hoisted to a directly over the part to be welded and is filled with about 30 pounds of welding material. Thirty seconds after the torch is applied, molten metal flows down on the parts and forms a casting. Wax and sand are used to make the. The invention cost only $40 it eliminates the necessity of getting the engine down to repair a frame.

Engine Inspector Lyman and son Grant, who is a boilermaker, have both gone to Portland where they will take treatment hospital.

Engineer Daniels is now promoted to the seat at the throttle was recently promoted.

Today, Fireman Elliot took the mechanic's examination from vision Foreman Watson and at the same time Fireman Snodgrass took the transportation examination from the train department.

Engine 362 is shipped for flues. Engine 365 will receive a set of flues in addition to having the frame repaired.
