

OLD COMRADES MEET

CONSTABLE FAULK MEETS CON.
MADE OF MANY BATTLES.

In 25 Fights, But Drift Apart and Meet Again Here.

After having spent five years in the civil war together, engaged in twenty-five battles, withstanding the hardships of war and then drifting apart at the time of discharge never to meet until yesterday, is the dramatic incident that occurred in La Grande when James Hooper of Portland clasped the hand of Constable I. W. Faulk.

Each seemed dazed as he looked at the other and finally Hooper remarked: "It seems impossible, but I guess it's true. It was a hard long campaign, wasn't it, but we came out all right after fighting the twenty-five battles and numerous skirmishes. Yes, we belonged to the 100th Indiana. We fought in Missionary Ridge, Atlanta, Vicksburg and Jonesboro; we saw the southern metal tried but not found wanting. The boys of the south were just as good fighters as we were. They did not know what it meant to 'quilt.' But we had that vital advantage of being right, and it was the right that prevailed after years of horrible slaughter."

Mr. Hooper and Mr. Faulk were mustered out of the service June 8, 1865, at Washington, D. C. Each went his way and they had not met until yesterday. Mr. Hooper is here visiting Charles McCann and family.

Wool Season in Fall Swing

The shearing of sheep has commenced, the buyers of wool are gathering in Pendleton from all parts of the east and from the south and a few days more will see Eastern Oregon's wool season at its height. From present indications it will be one of the most important and prosperous seasons the growers of wool in this state have ever enjoyed.

Shearing has been in progress in the Arlington country for several days. Some growers have their clips ready for the market, others will finish up this week, but the great majority are just getting ready to begin shearing. The Cunningham Shear and Land company, one of the largest sheep companies in the state, will finish up this week, while the J. E. Smith company, another large concern, is installing the machinery for their shearing plant and will be in full swing by the first of next week.

Reports from all sections where any shearing at all has been done are to the effect that the fleeces are remarkably free from dirt this year, while the staple is fully up to the standard, being both long and firm. The condition of the market is good and with the quality of the wool as good as any ever produced in Eastern Oregon it is expected that the prices will be good.

The dates for public sales in Idaho and Oregon have been finally agreed upon by the buyers and sellers and the revised schedule of dates as it will now stand, is as follows:

- May 16—Mountain Home.
- May 18—Payette and Weiser.
- May 20—Midville and Cambridge.
- May 24—Pendleton.

- May 25—Happner.
- June 2—Midville and Cambridge.
- June 4—Payette and Weiser.
- June 7—Shaniko.
- June 10—Pendleton.
- June 11—Pilot Rock.
- June 13—Vale.
- June 14—Ontario.
- June 15—Mountain Home.
- June 17—Baker City.
- June 21—Shaniko.
- June 24—Happner.
- July 1—Wallowa County.
- July 7—Shaniko.
- July 12—Wallowa County.

HINER RESIGNS.

Spokesman-Review Agent Will go to Canada Soon on a Trip.

R. A. Hiner has resigned his position as district manager for the Spokesman-Review of Spokane, and ere long will go to Canada on a junket, combining business and pleasure. Mr. Hiner has been a staunch booster for La Grande while making his headquarters here for the Spokesman for the past two years and he has won for himself many friends by his conscientious manner of doing things.

He has nothing definite in view, but wants to travel in Canada to see for himself what the country there affords. His successor here has not been appointed yet.

Women Oarsmen to Race.

Seattle, April 22.—An interclass race for the women oarsmen of the University of Washington will be held today over the half mile Lake Union course.
