

About The City

Juvenile Angler

"Dave" Steward Jr. is perhaps the youngest angler in the city. He holds a record of having caught a very desirable trout yesterday.

Lane Funeral Held

The funeral of William Lane who died in Salem last week, was held from the old home in South La Grande yesterday afternoon, Rev. H. E. McLeod officiating. Interment was made at the Masonic Cemetery.

Land Office Filings

The following made filings at the land office today: Homesteads, Hugo Elsh and Byrd Davidson of Monument; timber and stone, Jack Vaughn of Fox and Richards S. Snyder of Fox, Grant County, Oregon.

Mrs. George Robertson Dead

Mrs. George Robertson died at her home near Island City yesterday. She was a member of the local order of Rebekahs and was well known in and around La Grande. Funeral arrangements had not been made at noon today.

Supreme Judge Here

Robt. Eakin, a member of the Oregon Supreme Court, was a guest with friends in La Grande yesterday. He has gone to Pendleton to sit on the bench at the session of the supreme court which convened there today.

Grand Master on Tour

Assistant Cashier H. E. Coolidge of the United States National Bank, has gone to Portland from where he will make side trips to visit various Odd Fellow lodges in the state. Mr. Coolidge is grand master and is making one of his annual tours of the entire state to look after affairs of the lodge.

A Novel Program

Comedy and instruction run hand in hand at the Isis in the program now on, and to be seen this evening for the last time. One of the most instructive films that could well be imagined is the story of sardine canning. It takes the spectator from the time the fish is caught until it is produced a toothsome pickled sardine. The other numbers are excellent.

Back to Locate Permanently

O. M. Hancock has decided to locate in La Grande permanently and will maintain his optical parlors over the Newlin Drug Store. He brings with him a complete set of optical machinery and has instruments for every test of the eye, and he is considered one of the best experts in the state in the use of them. He has brought with him his lens grinding machinery and anyone can get a lens in a few minutes, bringing large city service to the residents of La Grande. Mr. Hancock is also a band and orchestra man and the local organizations will profit by his being here. He has been gone over a year seeking other locations but finds this the best and he will stay here in the coming metropolis of Eastern Oregon.

City Coffers Richer

W. Spencer plead guilty today and was fined $5.00 for sleeping in the alleys. Jack Schweier forfeited a bond of $2.00.

Married Sunday

In the presence of a few immediate friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Leadworth on Cedar street, La Grande, Oregon, on May 1, 1910 at 3 o'clock p. m., Arthur A. DeFord was united in marriage to Luella Rule, Justice Arthur C. Williams officiating. Mr. and Mrs. DeFord will make their future home in La Grande, Mr. DeFord being a trusted employee of the O. R. & N.

The members of the Rebekah lodge are requested to meet at the Odd Fellows Hall this evening to make arrangements for a funeral. All members are urged to be present.

ASHER C. HINDS.

The Man Talked of to Succeed Speaker Cannon.

The proposition to remove Speaker Cannon by means of the combined vote of Democrats and insurgents and substitute in his place Asher C. Hinds has brought the parliamentarian of the house back in the limelight of late. Mr. Hinds has long been the right hand man of the speaker and has at his tongue's end the rules of the house and most of the precedents and authorities concerning decisions of parliamentary law.

Mr. Hinds is known officially as "clerk at the speaker's table" and came to his place in the Fifty-first congress, being selected by the late Thomas B. Reed, former speaker. When the Democrats took control he returned to his newspaper in Portland, but went back to the Fifty-fourth congress and over since has held his present position.

A SEA FLIER.

The Recent Sensational Flights of Rougier Over Monaco Bay.

Europe has been keenly interested recently in the marvelous work of M. Rougier, the French aviator, who, in his Voisin biplane, flew over Monaco bay and out to sea. He is the first aviator to traverse this bay in an airship and has gained much fame by his successful trip.

The affair opened with a sensation that the residents of Monaco who witnessed it will long remember. Instead of making the run that is necessary before the machine will fly along the grass of an aviation field he used a public street for this purpose.
