150 JAPS WILL THIN BEETS

LAST SQUAD OF BIG ARMY OF WORKERS ARRIVES.

About One Hundred and Fifty Here to Work Beet Fields

Activities on Grande Ronde valley beet fields commenced today when the last delegation of Japanese arrived to go on the Amalgamated Sugar company's fields to culture the growing beets. One hundred and fifty orientals have been brought here under the direction of Frank and Charles Mzioguchi, secretaries of the local Japanese colony and the army will remain here until the beets are harvested. Considerably more than 1000 acres will be seeded to beets.

Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

WITH the advent of spring comes the same old subject of what we shall wear and how we shall find the money to satisfy the people who sold us last season's garments.

You have to chloroform some persons before they will give up a kindly remark.

The fellow who tells you what a mighty good chap you are is after either a return of the compliment or a dollar.

A thing may be on the square all right and still not be permitted to stay there.

Of course you can't see any good in a man who is actively engaged in poaching on your own preserves.

What is the sense of talking of the glories of good government to a man condemned to die tomorrow?

Be a dreamer if you must, but try to connect up with a concern that will be willing to pay you a salary for it.

Talk about eggs being dear. Nobody knows anything about dear eggs who has not kept hens.

Nothing is absolutely safe. Once a man committed suicide with a safety razor—in his pocket.

Striking a Balance.
This matter of doing a favor—And having one done in return Sounds good, but in giving and taking You seldom secure what you earn. Your knocks in the memory are treasured. The favors less firmly are set. It's funny what men will remember; It's funny how men can forget.

You know at Bill Jones' barn raising The way that you tolled like a Turk. Did most of the groaning and lifting And puffing—say, talk about work!—And how in returning the labor Around like a dummy he "set." It's funny what men will remember; It's funny how men can forget.

And when just in sport you put over That joke on Geora—Washington Brown And made him appear like a ninny Before all the people in town You know that he never forgave you— In fact, he remembers it yet. It's funny what men will remember; It's funny how men can forget.

When Vanderbum borrowed a dollar And promised to pay it next week You know how you hinted and threatened Before you could get him to leave, And if you had been less obtrusive He still would be owing the debt. It's funny what men will remember; It's funny how men can forget.

Had It Beaten.
"How touching that story is!"
"Touching?"
"Yes. Don't you think so?"
"Well, maybe."
"I think it is the most touching thing I ever heard."
"Well, it can't hold a candle to the touching qualities of a story a chap I know comes around and tells every month just after I have connected with the pay roll."

The boy who hasn't got baseball on the brain lacks the brain.

Seasonable.

Smell of rubbish burning
On the morning air.
Signs of life returning
Greet you everywhere.
Weather all the candy
Up and down the line.
Isn't spring a dandy
When it's feeling fine?

Little buds are peeping
Through the mellow mold,
Where they have been sleeping
From the winter's cold,
Little sunbeams tagging
Every living thing.
Sort of can't help bragging
On the dandy spring.

Breezes soft and mellow
Floating down the pike
Come and make a fellow
Feel so laxy-like,
Everything suggesting
Time for getting out
And for simply resting
Just to watch things sprout.

Makes a fellow younger
As he looks around
With a sort of hunger
On the mellow ground.
City man or farmer
Sighs for field and woods.
Isn't spring a charmer,
Right there with the goods?

The Royal Box.

Queen Alexandra of England used to take part in amateur theatricals at one time, and her daughter, Queen Maud of Norway, has inherited her love of acting.

An Indian ruler, the maharajah of Ghened, owns the finest brougham in the world. The handles of the doors are of solid gold, while the rest of the carriage is silver.

Czar Nicholas of Russia and King Victor Emmanuel of Italy met recently at Raconigi, Italy, at the railroad station. They embraced each other, and while thousands cheered, cannons saluted and the Russian national hymn sounded merrily each kissed the other on the cheek.
