Eating Away an Island.

Strength is not a thing usually connected with maidenhood, yet if its roots have not sufficient room they will break the pot in which the plant grows. Blades of grass will force the crevices between which they spring up out of their place, and in a single night a crop of small mushrooms have lifted a large stone. Indeed, plants have been known to break the hardest rocks. The island of Aldabra, to the northwest of Madagascar, is becoming smaller and smaller through the action of the mangroves that grow along the foot of the cliffs. They eat their way into the rock in all directions, and into the gaps thus formed the waves force their way. In time they will probably reduce the island to pieces.—London Globe

The Gobelins Factory.
The Gobelins factory was founded in 1515 by Francis I., who scoured Europe for the artists and the makers of beautiful things who could bring luster to the capital of France. Under his auspices came Leonardo da Vinci, and he it was who laid the foundations for the collections of statuary and paintings that have made Paris famous. The Gobelins tapestry factory was among the least of his undertakings.

Naming the Baby.
"Have you named the baby?" asked the admiring neighbor.
"Not yet," said the proud young mother. "We're going to christen him Sunday."
"Dear me! What an odd name! I'd almost as soon call him after Robinson Crusoe's man Friday and be done with it."—Chicago Tribune.
