PERSIAN WEAVERS.

The Way the Carpets Are Made by the Hand Workers.

In describing Persian industries Mrs. Hume Griffin, in "Behind the Veil in Persia and Turkish Arabia," tells how the beautiful carpets of that country are made, of course without machinery of any kind. The warp is stretched on a loom, which is merely a frame. The wool consists of short threads woven and knotted by hand without the aid of a shuttle. When a row is finished it is pressed tightly to the rest of the web by means of a comb inserted into the warp.

"The weaver does not see the pattern as he works, for he sits with the reverse side of the web toward him. The looms are generally kept in an underground vaulted room, often with water running through the center. At each loom three or four workers sit, according to the size of the carpet. Sometimes the workers consist of one man and two children, and occasionally the owner uses boys and girls only for the weaving.

"I sat on the high stool by the side of a tiny girl, whose fingers were working away so fast I could hardly follow her movements. The overseer was walking up and down the room calling out instructions to the workers. To me it sounded a horrible, incoherent jumble, but the children seemed to understand it perfectly.

The overseer held in his hand a paper, from which he was apparently reading out instructions. It was something like this:

"To No. 1, three blue threads, one white, two green; No. 2, four yellow, one white," and so on, each child repeating after the 'master' the instructions given. As it was all said in a high pitched monotone the result was confusing and deafening. But there the little weavers sit, day in, day out, week after week, in this dark, gloomy cellar, kept hard at it by the overseer."

Time's Changes.

Father (meditating on time's changes)—Ah, yes, the fashion of this world passeth away! Daughter—Indeed it does, papa. I shall want a new hat next week.

TRUTH No. 5.

There are two sure roads to wealth. One is by inheritance and the other by investment.

The man who INHERITS a large sum of money or property which yields him a goodly return is to be congratulated.

BUT,

The man to be doubly congratulated is the INVESTOR—the WISE INVESTOR—who recognizes the opportunity to place his cash, whatever the sum may be, where it will bring him safe, sure and good returns.

The history of America—in fact of the world—shows that the greatest fortunes have been made in oil. California, prodigally rich in this mineral, has made within the past three years fortunes for those shrewd enough to invest in oil lands and stocks. The producing of this product has been in the past, is now, and will continue to be a still greater factor as an investment than anything known at present in the country.

You are afforded an opportunity to invest your savings or surplus funds in an oil company that promises to reap large returns. Never before, and probably never again, will you have the same chance. Stock is now selling at 40 cents per share, and in order to secure it at this price we urge haste on your part. Fill out the attached blank and mail at once.
