DEAN CORLEY IS COMING

"FRUIT PESTS" WILL BE SUBJECT DURING CHAUTAUQUA.

Chautauqua Committee Elated in Securing Added Attraction.

Receiving a positive promise from A. B. Cordley, dean of the Oregon Agricultural College to the effect that he will be present during the chautauqua meeting at La Grande, the committee feels very good today and announced that special advertising would be done in order to inform every fruit grower of Eastern Oregon what may be learned by attending the meeting.

Dean Cordley will lecture on "How to Fight the Fruit Pests." Special attention will be given to pear blight and he will while here, investigate conditions in the valley, giving the people full benefit of his knowledge along the lines of growing better fruit.

This is looked upon by the committee as a very strong point for the Chautauqua, for the Dean seldom leaves the College and it was with no small amount of work that his presence in La Grande was guaranteed.

"Added to the many entertaining features, we are now assured of some instructive talks in fruit growing, which is of vital interest to this valley," remarked one of the committee this morning to the Observer, "and I certainly feel that we are getting the things in condition to absolutely guarantee to everyone a good time and at the same time give them something to take home with them and to talk about."

A GAME OF BALL.

How It May Strike a Stranger Who Sees It For the First Time.

Nothing has set America so high in the estimation of foreign nations, says Ellis Parker Butler in Success Magazine, as the adoption of baseball as the national sport. If a foreign spy wanders into America seeking to fathom our real inwardness and sees a game of baseball any feeling of contempt for our newness gives way instantly to awestruck admiration. At his first glance baseball is to him a mystery, and it remains a mystery to him. He sees 30,000 men and women suffering the tortures of the lower regions on hot grand stands. He sees a man pick up a small white ball as hard as a pine knot. Facing him is another man who holds a smooth but deadly club in his hands. Behind this second man is a third man whose face is hidden behind a birdcage. Suddenly the man with the ball raises one foot in the air and shows the man with the bat the sole of his shoe. The man at the bat sees that there are spikes in the sole of the shoe, and it angers him, and he raises his bat to throw it at the man with the ball. But—ah, ha!—the man with the ball is too quick for him. He throws the hard, white ball at the man with the bat with all his strength. The man with the bat waves defiance by swinging the bat in the air. The ball proceeds. The batsman never flinches! Will the ball kill the man or will the impact crush the ball? But, see! The ball finds man unflinching; the ball is panic stricken; the ball dodges around the man; the ball is lost, buried in the huge leather chair cushion that covers the hand of the birdcage man behind the batsman! "Strike one!" says the umpire. Thirty thousand cheers! Why?

Millions made in oil.
Millions yet to be made in oil.
The demand keeps step with the supply.

But little over two years ago there was not so very much being said or done that would awaken the senses of those who have watched the progress of the state of California. The riches of the mountains and canyons in gold had long since been credited to the past. But two years ago the world was again started with the knowledge that greater riches than had ever been produced from Mother Earth were at hand in the wonderful oil fields which were just being developed.

These have been developed within that period until the state of California stands the premier state in the Union in its oil field capacity and reputation. Good thing then to investigate, is it not? Worth looking into for a sure and safe investment? California National Crude Oil Company stock is the best investment we know of. 40 cents per share today, but 50 cents the latter part of the week.
