

ELECTRICITY FOR EVERY HOME IN LA GRANDE

The cost for wiring, lamps and current is exceedingly small compared with the convenience, comfort and safety obtained by its use.

Your home can be wired complete at an average cost of only $2.00 per room. Lamps, fixtures, flatirons, cooking utensils and numerous other electrical appliances may be obtained at surprisingly low cost.

Ask your neighbor why he uses electric light; he certainly has some reason for doing so, and then call at our office or our representative call at your house and explain to you why you should have your home wired and use electricity.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — How the Elephant Remembered

Lifted Him Up

"THIS evening's story is going to be a circus story," said daddy. "I know all youngsters like to hear about the circus, with the clowns and animals."

"I do, daddy," said Jack—"specially about the elephants."

"Very well," said daddy. "It shall be an elephant story, then."

"Many years ago there was an Englishman in India, where the elephants come from. Over there the elephants are made to work, and very useful they are, too, for they are very strong and easily taught. This man was in charge of a herd of elephants that were used to haul timber. He liked the elephants, and they were fond of him, so when he had spare time he taught them tricks. One of the tricks which he taught his pet elephant, a very large animal, was to lift him up in his trunk and place him on top of his head. I think, Jack and Evelyn, that you have seen elephants do the trick at the circus."

"Well, after many years the man had to leave India, for his health became bad. India, you know, is not a very good place for a white man to stay in a long time. He was very sorry to leave his elephants, and after he was gone they seemed to be sorry to have lost him. But, of course, he could not take them with him."

"The man went back to England to live. One day, years and years after he had left India, a circus came to the town where he lived, and the man took his little grandson to see the circus."

"When the little boy and his grandfather were on their way to the circus the boy told his grandpa that the first thing he wanted to see at the circus was the elephants, such as he had often heard his grandpa talk about. So the first thing they did when they reached the circus was to look for the elephants. One of the elephants belonging to the circus was an immense big one. As soon as the man and his grandson reached his stall and stood in front of it the elephant stretched out his trunk, wound it around the man, lifted him up and put him on his back."

"At first the man was frightened, as well as the little boy and all the people around the stall. But when they saw that the elephant did not mean to hurt the man and soon reached up again and placed him safely on the ground they asked him what had made the elephant act so."

"That is my old friend elephant, which I taught to do that trick in India many years ago," said the man. "When he saw me here, although he had not seen me in forty years, he remembered me and thought he would please me by doing the old trick again. He is one of the best elephants in the world."

"You may be sure that that elephant did not lack for peanuts while the circus remained in town," said daddy.

Marlin

WHETHER you live in the city or country, you'll find no .22 calibre repeating rifle like the Marlin Model 1897.

For the city man it is a perfect companion for the vacation or outing trip. It's light, tucks down and packs in a small space. The ammunition is inexpensive. The gun can be used with .22 shots for target, and is equally capable of handling .22 long or long-rifle cartridges without change of mechanism.

On the farm the rifle is a necessity. The short cartridge is sufficient for sparrows, squirrels and small game; and the long-rifle cartridge makes the Marlin Model '97 a distinctive weapon for geese, foxes, hawks, etc. up to 200 yards.

The "Marlin Book" of 126 pages, with handsome art cover, is jam full of up-to-date information for all gun-lovers and gives full description of all Marlin repeaters. FREE for 3 stamps postpaid.

Lifelong Training Is Necessary to Good Dancing.

By Miss ADELINE GENE, Famous Dancer.

DANCING is undeniably a HIGH ART. In order to be a great dancer or even a creditable one it is necessary that a woman GIVE HER LIFE TO IT.

I hear and read of dancers in this country, also in Europe, who seem to boast that they have never devoted any considerable time to training or instruction.

In order to dance properly a RIGOROUS TRAINING must be had. The muscles must obey, and they do not do that with desultory coaxing. The class who claim that "dancing just seemed natural" to them do not dance. They simply pose. As to the style of dancing that was in vogue two thousand years ago, I think it would be very difficult to criticise, as there is nothing on record regarding it.

TO DANCE PROPERLY THERE ARE CERTAIN MUSCLES WHICH MUST BE DEVELOPED. ALL ATHLETIC PASTIMES, SUCH AS GOLF, EQUESTRIANISM, SKATING OR ANY SPORT THAT TENDS TO DEVELOPE ONE FROM THE WAIST UP OR TO TURN THE TOES UPWARD, ARE ANTAGONISTIC TO THE BASIC PRINCIPLES OF REAL DANCING.
