TOGGERY AL. ANDREWS

WISE TALKS By The OFFICE BOY

I heard some good ones recently about Mr. Softleigh, the young man who stays too late. He was calling on one of his regulars. It was getting late and conversation lagged.

"When I was a kid," said Mr. Softleigh, "I used to ring door bells and run." "And now you ring them and stay," said the fair one.

Mr. Softleigh thought it was getting chilly so he got up and closed the door—on the outside.

Another time he was calling on a lady friend when the father came into the parlor with his watch in his hand and asked him if he knew what time it was. "It's time to be going, I guess," replied Softleigh reaching for his hat.

The old man followed him into the hall and asked him the same question again but Softleigh was too quick for him and made a dash for the front door leaving his cane on the hat rack.

"Wonder what was the matter with your young man?" said the old gent to his daughter. My watch had run down and I wanted to know if he could give me the correct time.

Mistakes will happen but I can tell you the correct time for shedding your storm doors and getting under a nice pearl gray crusher or nifty straw. Some fellows won't wear hats until the first of June. Oh, well; there's plenty of choice.

Bean Upholds Local Option.

Circuit Judge H. J. Bean has rendered a decision upholding the local option law and finding that the 20 or more near beer sellers, recently indicted, to be guilty of violating this law. This decision was rendered in the test case brought by a number of the defendants in an effort to set aside the law in so far as it applies to this county or at least to prevent its complete enforcement until after the fall election. Notice of appeal to the supreme court has been filed and as the decision of the latter court cannot be rendered until after the election, the purposes of the suit will have been accomplished.

The attack on the law was made on the ground that the county court had not been officially notified by the election board of the result of the election in accordance with the requirements of the general election law, and that the prohibition order was invalid. The district attorney contended that the permanent record of the election result had been made in accordance with the law and that in accordance with the special requirements of the local option law the county clerk had officially notified the court of the election result. The circuit court concurred with the district attorney and held that the order made by the county court and prohibiting the selling of intoxicating liquors in this county was a valid one.

The attorneys are now engaged in the preparations of their briefs, the appealed case will be argued before the supreme court in this city next fall and the decision will probably be handed down a few weeks later.—Pendleton East Oregonian.
