Who are investors?

In years past, the question of investment has been left very largely to the professional banker, and large individual buyers of securities. Men or women possessed of a few hundred or few thousand dollars were quite content to remain savings depositors, and did not feel capable of entering into what they considered the unknown field of investment. Today, however, it is quite different. The real investor who is served by the investment banker is the individual possessor of from $500.00 to $10,000.00. He is beginning to learn that he can invest his money safely in good STOCKS, which will earn from 10 per cent to 20 per cent instead of about 3 per cent or 4 per cent. He may do it by the purchase of STOCKS in which the banks themselves invest, or upon which they loan their funds. He has found that high grade oil STOCKS represent the foundation of the large and conservative fortunes of the country, and that they are held by Banks, Trust Companies and the large private investor. Oil stocks form the one great class of investment in which the element of risk has been reduced to the minimum. And the best oil stock that we know of to-day at the price, is the California-National Crude Oil Company stock at 50 cents per share.

VOTE ON ASYLUM QUESTION.

Future of Asylum in Eastern Oregon is Up to The People.

One of the many measures to be voted upon at the fall elections in the state, will be the Eastern Oregon branch asylum bill and even at this early date, movements are under way to have a liberal vote cast in favor of the measure.

The bill had a perambulating career in its making. Senator Smith of Umatilla county introduced it, stipulating Umatilla county as the location of the branch institution; Hart of Baker City squeezed in an amendment including Baker county as one of two possible locations; Senator Oliver got before the house committee and on the strength of a state site near Union, was able to stick on the third county as a possible location. The definite location in the bill as finally passed, is left to the state board.

According to an amendment to the constitution passed two years ago, state buildings can be located outside of Salem only on the strength of adoption of the measure creating it, by the people of the state. This then is the situation of the Eastern Oregon asylum question now, and the final life or death of the measure will be determined at the next election.

HOT LAKE PRECINCT.

Hereafter there will be a combination of precincts to make one new precinct for county and other elections. Precinct No. 5 which included the district east of La Grande, has been combined with the Hot Lake district which was formerly connected with Union and the Hot Lake precinct has been created. This was done at the last term of county court.
