Aeronaut Has Wild Ride.

New York, June 14.—Frank Owens, an aeronaut, had a wild ride today when he attempted to pilot a dirigible over this city in a gale. He lost control of the dirigible and dashed against various buildings. Hundreds of thousands of persons watched the fight for life. He finally landed in a tangle on the electric wires in Brooklyn. He started from Belleville, N. Y., passed over Jersey City and then descending struck the top of the sky scrapers near the city hall. The machine's engine broke and as a plaything of the winds, was bumped through the city, crossing to Brooklyn and narrowly missing the Brooklyn bridge.

LIVER TWIST.

The New Medicine That Mr. Blodgett Did Not Buy.

Mr. Blodgett, who lives out of town, fancies he is afflicted with liver complaint and in consequence tries every new medicine that comes on the market, fondly expecting it to prove effective for his particular malady. Not only that, but he swallows every sample of medicine left at the door by canvassers and anxiously continues his search for something new.

"Did you ever hear of liver twist, Maria?" was Blodgett's first remark to his wife as he came home from business a few evenings since.

"No, I never heard of it, but I suppose I shall have to get you a bottle if you want to try it," was the answer. "I will find out something more about it tomorrow and see if they have any testimonials before we get it."

"I don't think you need mind about the testimonials, for you will take it anyway," said Mrs. Blodgett wearily.

When Mr. Blodgett came home the next evening his wife said, "Charles, have you got that bottle of liver twist yet?"

"Well—no—er—you see, Maria, there's no such thing."

"No such thing!" exclaimed the astonished Maria.

"No, I saw it advertised in big letters on a barn. It just said liver twist and that was all. This morning I saw it on a fence the other side of the road, and then I looked at the barn to see where the mistake was, and I found that the first board was pulled off, and it was an advertisement for a theater, and the name of the play was 'Liver Twist.'"—New York Press.

His Warning.

A voluble faker was selling bottles of a mixture he called hair grower on a street corner. He said:

"Yes, gents, one bottle of this unrivaled hair grower will raise a rich, luxuriant crop of hair on the balddest head in the crowd. But let me give you this one word of warning."

Here he paused to pocket a half dollar and hand a bottle of the liquid to a baldhead.

"My warning is: Do not neglect when the full head of hair is grown to take the last dose in the bottle internally, that is, swallow it."

"Swallow it. What for?" the buyer asked.

"To clinch the roots," was the reply.

The Cat's Bed.

"It's a bad thing to mix presence of mind and absentmindedness," said an actress. "When 'Mme. Sans-Gene' was the play of the hour I had the part of the blanchisseuse in the laundry scene and was busily engaged in ironing when a cat which had its home somewhere about the theater came walking on to the stage. I thought this would furnish a good opportunity to give a realistic domestic touch to the scene, and so when puss came purring up and rubbed against me I stroked her fur, spoke to her, and then, for fear she might be distracting, I picked her up and put her down on the nearest place at hand, saying, 'There, pussy, go to sleep!'"

"The cat curled up contentedly, and I went on with my lines. Suddenly I was aware of a murmur among the audience, which increased to a ripple of laughter. I realized something was up and turned instinctively to look at puss. There she was, asleep, where I had put her, among the iron on the 'red-hot' range."—Young's Magazine.

Anticipation.

It is a mystery of the unknown that fascinates us. We are children still, Wayward and wistful. With one hand we cling

To the familiar things we call our own And with the other, resolute of will, Grope in the dark for what the day will bring.

—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow.

GOOD IMPROVEMENT MOVE.

Pupils of Grammar School Form Unique Civic League.

The Bartlett Civic League of Lowell, Mass., is made up of pupils in the Bartlett school, a grammar school used as a training school by the Lowell Normal school. Its object is to keep the school and neighborhood beautiful, clean and healthful. Any pupil in the school may join by signing the pledge, which is as follows:

"I will not injure any tree, shrub or lawn.

"I promise not to spit upon the floor of the schoolhouse or upon the sidewalk.

"I pledge myself not to deface any fence or building; neither will I scatter paper nor throw rubbish in public places.

"I will always protect birds and animals.

"I will protect the property of others as I would my own.

"I will promise to be a true, loyal citizen."

Each member is entitled to wear a button which is the badge of the league and of this form of juvenile citizenship. The officers are chosen from the school, and there is an executive committee on which two teachers serve.

Here is a type of organization that would be particularly helpful in cities and towns, but particularly in towns, where there are so many more external objects with which the children may come in contact and upon the preservation of which the best interests of the community depend. Let us have such civic leagues in every school. It is the best introduction to citizenship.

START IMPROVEMENT CLUB.

It Will Convert the Home Town into an Ideal One.

If your neighborhood has no improvement club one should be instituted without delay. The keeping of streets, parkings, alleys and vacant lots free from weeds and rubbish will alone so greatly improve the appearance of your community that no one will ever regret joining the movement. Do not cumber the young organization with a lengthy constitution and by-laws, but adopt at the start only what is absolutely necessary to make organization a reality. The proper spirit will keep all moving smoothly. The following is a good model constitution:

First.—This club shall be called the — Improvement club.

Second.—The objects of this club shall be to cultivate public sentiment in favor of improving and beautifying the school and other public grounds, the streets and roads of the vicinity and the home grounds of the residents.

Third.—The payment of — shall constitute membership during the current year of the club.

Fourth.—The general officers shall be a president, vice president, secretary and treasurer. These officers, with three members—all to be elected by ballot—shall constitute a board of directors. The appointment of all committees shall be made by the president, subject to the approval of the board of directors. The board of directors shall arrange programs in advance for the meetings.

Fifth.—Seven members shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

Sixth.—Meetings to be held once or twice a month, as seems most convenient.

Interesting programs should be arranged for all meetings so that a variety of entertainment is provided to liven what may prove to some to be a dull discussion of the objects of the organization.

Tree Mimosas.

Some of the mimosas, of which the well known sensitive plant is one, occasionally attain the dignity of a tree and are used for street and garden shade. In a warm climate they are usually somewhat sparse in foliage and for that reason are not so popular as they are in the southern states, where the summer atmosphere is far more humid. The few grown in parts of southern California have given satisfaction except where placed under hard conditions.

Rigidity of Motorcars.

Discussing the question of the weight of motorcars, the Autocar states that there is no such thing as absolute rigidity and the most scientifically built car is that which provides just that natural amount of spring and give in the structure, as a whole, which is desirable and at the same time does not contain a single part which is insufficiently strong for its work. Anything more than this means the carrying of needless weight, which in its turn not only results in unduly rapid wear of tires, but also means slow climbing, lack of liveliness and waste of gasoline.
