THE FAIR

MAY BE CALLED "GRANDVIEW"

NEW ADDITION TO BE PUT ON THE REAL ESTATE MARKET.

La Grande Beginning to Boom Real Estate That Has Merit.

One of the real estate deals that will assist to make La Grande a city of the size it is entitled to be, has been closed by Sargent & Wright whereby they become owners of an eighty acre tract of land at the end of Adams avenue and just outside the city limits. The tract was owned by Steward McAnish and is one of the most desirable pieces of property that lies in this section of the valley.

When seen today by a representative of the Observer the new owners verified the story of the purchase and stated they intend to cut it into acre tracts, make some substantial improvements and then sell to small investors on the payment plan. Each acre will be set to fruit and cared for by the new owners if purchasers so desire. Restrictions will follow as to the quality of buildings that will be permitted, making the new addition one of beauty.

May Be "Grandview."

While the name has not been thoroughly established there is reason to believe that Sargent & Wright will call the new addition Grandview. Platting of the tract will begin at once and streets and roadways will be laid out in a way that will be very attractive.

Being located less than one-eighth of a mile from the corporate limits of La Grande, Grandview is bound to become a desirable residence section, especially with the restrictions that will be placed on the purchasers.

The price to purchasers has not yet been fixed, but it is quite likely that an individual can buy one acre of this land and have it set to fruit for $500 or near that figure. Should this price obtain it will be one of the cheapest home propositions ever placed on the market in any city, and especially in a city that has the pay rolls, the resources and the proof of permanent growth that La Grande has.

Notice.

To any person owning or occupying any building or premises, you are hereby notified to remove in ten days all wooden awnings and porches and signs suspended over any sidewalk in the city of La Grande, Oregon, provided that electric signs that are properly suspended may remain.
