ENGINEER HERO OF THE WEEK

LOCAL ENGINEER SAVES TRAIN FROM WRECK.

Prompt and Nerve Action Averts Terrible Disaster at Gibbon.

Engineer Gibson of the mountain helper service is being lauded to the skies by fellow trainmen for a daring feat which he performed this week in saving eastbound passenger train No. 6 from what seemed certain wreck. The incident occurred near Gibbon and according to local trainmen it was probably the narrowest escape from a disastrous train wreck the O. R. & N. has had in years, relates the Pendleton East Oregonian.

No. 6, heavily laden with eastbound passengers, was rushing toward Gibbon and had entered the last block before that station when Græeks who were dropping empty cars down from the coal chute permitted three of them to escape from their control. The cars dashed down the steep incline out onto the main line and headed for Pendleton at a terrific rate of speed. As the passenger train was already in the block there was not the slightest chance that she could be warned of the impending disaster.

Engineer Gibson was diling his big helper engine when he witnessed the escape of the cars. Realizing the importance of prompt action he did not hesitate a moment but swung himself into his cab and started in pursuit of the runaways. Though this was but the work of a minute the escaped cars were already far on their way toward the oncoming train and though Gibson pulled the lever back to the last notch, throwing the throttle wide open, in the wild race down the track, two miles were covered before the cars were overhauled in the very face of the passenger. Then began the race back to the station and the helper with its runaway cars was barely sent flying onto a side track as the train came thundering in.

A delay of a minute or possibly the fraction of a minute would have meant a great disaster and great loss of life.

ROUND HOUSE NEWS

Conductor Ferguson will soon move his family to Pendleton from where he will run on the Pendleton-Huntington main line passenger service. Conductor Jack Heughan now has Mr. Ferguson's Wallowa branch line permanently.

Switch engine No. 31 jumped the track last night near the Fir street crossing and for a time tied up yard work.

Laying of cement platform at the depot is progressing rapidly and within a few days all walks and platforms will be ready for use.

Some $40,000 were distributed today as the monthly payment to local employees.

Circus day is always a busy one for railroaders and today was no exception. Extra trains mean extra pay, however, so everybody smiles just a little anyway.

Evidence of Conspiracy.

Chicago, June 15.—Senator Lorimer will probably be a witness for the defense in the trial of Browne for bribery in connection with Lorimer's election. It is believed that Lorimer will testify that Browne is a victim of a gigantic conspiracy. White, the confessed bribe taker, was cross examined today and denied that he sold his confession to the Chicago Tribune because he was hostile to Lorimer.

Society's Surprise—Lorimer's Career—Genee to Dance No More—Amundsen's Daring Polar Trip.

MISS HARRIMAN.

JUST as society gossip had it all settled that Miss Mary Harriman was to wed Robert Walton Goulet out slipped an announcement that gave them the surprise of their lives. It turns out that her choice of a husband is Charles O. Rumsey, the sculptor, a son of L. B. Rumsey of Buffalo, who made a large fortune in the tanning and railroad business. The marriage will unite a couple whose tastes are much alike, both being devoted to art, music, sculpture and all outdoor sports.

The two first met at the Meadowbrook club, and the intimacy ripened through their love for horsemanship. It was while the sculptor was designing his new group for Arden, however, that the courtship really began. Harriman posed frequently in his New York studio for a bas-relief of herself in the group, and the acquaintance ripened into the present engagement. Since the death of her father Miss Harriman has managed the Arden estate and shown herself to be a most capable business woman. She is a member of many hunting clubs, and there are few better riders among the fair sex in this country.

United States Senator William Lorimer, for whom, it is alleged, votes were bought, is a striking example of a self made man, and his life story is one of hard fighting. He was born in Manchester, England, and at the age of five brought to America, his family settling at Port Sanilac, Mich. Subsequently they moved to a farm in Ohio and later settled in Chicago.

For a time Lorimer went to school, but his parents were so poor that they were compelled to send him into the streets as a bootblack. He next took up the selling of newspapers and later secured a place as street car conductor, giving this up finally to work as a laborer in the stockyards. Entering politics after many bitter fights, he won a seat in the house of representatives and finally in the senate.

The charges against Mr. Lorimer are brought by State Representative Charles A. White, who alleges that he got $1,000 to vote for the senator.

All who have seen that airy, fairy little dancer Adeline Genee cannot help wishing that Frank S. Isitt had stayed over in England and buried himself in the affairs of the Duke of Newcastle, whose attorney he is. But he had to follow her to America and become so persistent in his wooing that now the stage has lost one of its greatest favorites, for she is to marry him and dance before the footlights no more.

Miss Genee achieved great success in all the principal cities, and while her popularity is at its height she is giving up a brilliant stage career at the beck of Cupid. No doubt she will welcome the change, however, for to hold her place as a premiere danseuse she has had to make severe sacrifices. No theater suppers, no good times, but fasting and constant practice have been her lot. She is twenty-seven years old and has been dancing since she was twelve, at that age scoring a big hit in Berlin.

Everywhere the little dancer has appeared in this country she has received much applause, and the announcement of her retirement has caused keen regret.

The Break in the Fog.

There had been half a dozen stories of thick fogs, but Captain Mansfield had waited his turn with patience. It came at last, and the other captains turned their weather beaten faces toward him with an expression of cheerful credulity.

"'Twas told me of a house setting pretty nigh the shore along halfway down the coast o' Maine," said Captain Mansfield. "I could show you the house if it came right. It has a curious lopsided portico on it, and one day I asked the man that lives there why it happened to be built that queer
