STATION DAY IS NEW EVENT

UNION EXPERIMENT STATION IS AFTER INFORMATION.

When Most Suitable Date is Known,
Will Hold Interesting Event.

Superintendent Robert Withycombe is feeling the public pulse in regards to the best date for holding an experiment farm day at the state experiment station near Union. It is important to the welfare of the institution and the public alike, that a day be set aside each year as a great big school day in which farmers can inspect the farm and learn of the deep fountain of knowledge which has come to the institution through years of experiments.

Just now the management is trying to learn what day of the present year would be the most satisfaction to everyone, and has sent out cards to a great number of people, asking for an expression on this point. As soon as a day can be decided upon, full announcement of the event will be made.

Who the Kuhns Are.

The Kuhn California project whose advertisement appears in this issue is controlled by J. S. and W. S. Kuhn, prominent and wealthy bankers of Pittsburg, Penn., the same people who so successfully developed over 400,000 acres in Southern Idaho. Their Californian project consists of 20,000 acres in the great Sacramento valley and is one of the greatest irrigation projects ever attempted. Seeing is believing. Investigate and be convinced.

SACRAMENTO VALLEY

A large area. A wonderfully fertile soil. A delightful and healthful climate. Where the growing period is ten months. Where alfalfa yields 8 to 10 tons per acre. Where the orange, the vine, the orchard and the farm all offer the greatest possible opportunities. Where the land owns the water---all the canals, laterals and other perquisites, after the entire acreage is sold, reverting to the property owners---each acre representing one share of stock in the Canal company.
