Humor and Philosophy

By DUNCAN M. SMITH

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

THE feelings of the individual who is always getting them hurt aren't worth the nerve strain they entail upon friends and acquaintances.

Fond of Them.

"You are such an old bachelor that I suppose that you don't care anything for the girls?"

"On the contrary, I am inordinately fond of them."

"You are?"

"I am, indeed."

"That's queer."

"Not at all; you see, I am extraordinarily indebted to them."

"As how?"

"They never have married me."

Uncle Hi's Idea.

"A little learning is a dangerous thing."

"Is that so?"

"So it is said."

"I swan! That accounts for it."

"For what?"

"I've always noticed that it was apt to cause trouble to have one of them college students about the place."

Not Knocking, But—

"She has beautiful clothes, hasn't she?"

"Mollie?"

"Yes."

"She surely has; there is just one thing she lacks."

"What is that?"

"Some one to wear them for her."

IT CERTAINLY

LOOKS GOOD

to the children when they see the delicious bread made from the North Powder Best of the Best Patent flour. It is a meal for the little ones, with butter, jam or jelly, that is wholesome and muscle building. It looks good also to the housewife when she sees the golden brown crisp and the white bread inside when it comes from the oven. It also smells appetizing when made from Best of Best Flour.
