FINAL VICTORY IS RECORDED

TURNER OLIVER LOSES IN SUPREME COURT CASE YESTERDAY

City Successful in Six-Year Fight Over Property and Walk Lines.

Litigation over a piece of sidewalk and dispute over property lines along the front of the Turner Oliver property on O avenue, came to an end yesterday when the supreme court handed down a decision in the now famous case entitled Turner Oliver against Fred Suyhorst, the street superintendent for the city of La Grande. The decision is the outcome of a series of trials and retrials and appeals and reappeals that have been in the legal limelight since 1904, and at various times has been the seat of considerable excitement. This was especially true last spring when Turner Oliver defied the entire street superintendent's crew to proceed further with the removal of the sidewalk and fence in question, using bricks as prospective weapons to make his day all the more impressive.

The case commenced six years ago when Mr. and Mrs. Oliver were ordered by the city council to move the street fence and sidewalk back on to the property a distance of seven feet. Mrs. Oliver secured an injunction but Attorneys Finn and Knowles, representing the city, moved to have several clauses stricken from the complaint. This was allowed by the then circuit judge, Alkene. The case came to trial on the revised complaint, and the plaintiff refused to take any testimony. The city took some testimony, of an ex-parte nature, and Judge Alkene handed down a decision in favor of the city. The case was appealed and sent back for retrial on the grounds that Judge Alkene wrongfully struck out the clauses mentioned, and Mrs. Oliver was given an opportunity to prove the allegations if she could. In the meantime J. F. Baker had been appointed city attorney, and filing an amended answer, took the case to trial, both parties this time introducing testimony. The city won again. This was in 1906; for last winter the circuit court, Judge Beas of Pendleton, presiding, because Judge Knowles of this district had previously been interested as an attorney—handed down a decision in favor of the city again.

Then came the thrilling moments in the case. Street Superintendent Matott was ordered to make the changes and one day last spring had a crew of men remove the walk while Mr. Oliver was down town. He came home in time to stop the work before it had been completed, and defied the street superintendent or his men to step on his property. A temporary injunction was secured and the case appealed to the supreme court again, being argued at the May term at Pendleton.

The decision yesterday was the final stage and the property fence and sidewalk will be moved within twenty days or unless Mr. Oliver accepts the only recourse left open to him.

Mr. Oliver, acting for Mrs. Oliver may file a brief calling attention of the supreme court to errors that may in the attorney's opinion have been made. There can be no more appeal or no more verbal argument and the legal procedure mentioned is the only step now open. If this is not done the fence will be torn down after twenty days, just about six years after the first effort to do so have elapsed.

He had spent considerable time traveling over the northwest and found nothing that offered the inducement that the Grande Ronde valley offered. Several families from Oklahoma will follow Mr. Wilson in the near future.

Chesney Miller of Nampa purchased 33 acres four miles north of the city from the Logan-Sherwood company and Mr. Brainbridge of Hermlston, was also a customer of the same firm and bought 120 acres in Ladd canyon.

THREE WHEAT FIELDS AT IMBLER BURNED UP THIS AFTERNOON

Three of the finest small wheat farms in and around Imbler and Imbler, are in a solid mass of flames at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The C. S. Williams farm of about eighty acres, the Charles Playle farm of the same size, and the Tom Ruckman wheat fields are afire, and there seems to be no manner of controlling the blaze.

As far as can be learned the flames started from the engine on the logging train coming from Palmer Junction. The Williams place caught first and it is doubtful if a single acre will be saved. It is insured. The Playle field is not insured and it, too, is doomed.

While the telephones in and around Imbler were kept red hot in an effort to recruit fire fighters, Mrs. Tom Ruckman spent several minutes getting central from her home, and at 4 o'clock, the Ruckmans are in danger of losing their entire field. Communication with Imbler was shut off just before 4 o'clock this afternoon and it is impossible to gain further information as to the Ruckman loss. It is presumed that it, too, was ignited by the locomotive.
