Storage at Alicel Today

Alicel, July 21.—Special—Nineteen ten wheat was received here today by the Grande Ronde Grain company, the earliest that it has ever come to the warehouse at Alicel. August 4th was the earliest previous date.

The grade of wheat received today is excellent and it is evident that Alicel will produce a large quantity of first class flour stuffs again this year. Four carloads of sacks have arrived for local distribution and from now on the elevators will begin to fill rapidly.

MYELITIS GENERAL DISEASE

CALIFORNIA AND OREGON TOWNS DISCOVER MALADY.

All Physicians Agree With La Grande Doctors as to Mystifying Causes.

California, and various portions of Oregon, are suffering with the malady known as polio myelitis to news dispatches. All agree that the disease is somewhat of a mystery and La Grande is given credit for having discovered the true name of a disease which in several towns is causing much suffering.

Girl Patient Recovering.

Castle Rock, Wash., July 10.—Dr. Davies, of Kelso, was called to the Carnine home, near Silver Lake, this morning to attend a daughter who was suffering from a severe case of what is evidently anterior polio myelitis, the strange disease which is baffling La Grande physicians.

When he arrived he found the young woman unconscious, but after treatment she became conscious and when he left the house she was talking and laughing. Two other children in the family are ill, and the doctor thinks they are threatened with the same affliction.

Patient is Strangely Ill.

Gresham, Or., July 19.—William B. McLinn is at the point of death at his home in the Rockwood, his malady resembling the baffling disease reported from other places, and said to be acute anterior polio myelitis.

He was taken suddenly ill on Saturday and despite the constant efforts of several physicians is growing steadily worse, with little hope of recovery.

AN EULOGY TO ARLO MYERS

WHO WILL FILL HIS PLACE ASKS LOCAL CONTRIBUTOR.

A Perfect Son, Perfect Sportsman, Perfect Gentleman Hard to Find.

La Grande, July 21.—To the editor—In the passing of Arlo Myers, La Grande meets a severe loss. Young men of his character cannot well be spared. His ability to excel in all he undertook will keep his memory ripe in the athletic world; in debating and oratorical fields; as a leader showing unusual executive ability; in play and work alike will be remembered fondly. Boys and girls, young men and women and the citizens of La Grande of mature years all admired Arlo Myers for the skill and success of his nineteen years. But the real boy behind it all; his force of character, his modesty in victory; his fair spirit of "live and let live," his clean-cut life, his balance between right and wrong—these are the things that made all love and respect Arlo Myers and made him a power for good in the younger set. This young man will warrant emulation in the school room, on the rostrum, on the athletic field and, most important of all, at home, for Arlo Myers was the right kind of a son or he would never have been the perfect gentleman and true sportsman he always demonstrated himself to be. Who among the young men will strive to fill Arlo Myers' place of influence for all things good. F. E. MOORE.

EVADING THE LAW.

The Pictures of Flying Birds in a Mohammedan Mosque.

According to one of the tenets of the Mohammedan religion, it is a sin to make a picture of any living thing. The elaborate decorations of the palaces and mosques of the east are almost exclusively made up of ingeniously interlaced geometric designs, arabesques or flowers, intermixed with sentences of the Koran.

There is a belief among Mussulmans that at the day of judgment Allah will demand that the artist who has made the image of a living thing shall endow that image with life and that, failing to do this, the artist will be sent to perdition for his sin.

A gentleman who visited a mosque in Algiers found that the tiles with which the building is decorated, which are very old and very beautiful, are adorned with flights of birds. He expressed surprise at this and asked if the command against such representation were a modern edict.

"Oh, no," answered the pious Algerian to whom he addressed the question. "These are not pictures of living birds."

"But they are painted as if flying across the tiles," the other said in some astonishment.

"Yes," the Mussulman replied, "but do you not see that about the neck of each there is a fine black line? That is to show that the artist painted only dead birds, and the command of the Koran is not violated."

CASTE IN THE ARMY.

Civilians Find It Difficult to Understand Military Discipline.

One thing not commonly understood among civilians is the completeness of the barrier which divides army officers from the soldiers, or, as they are more generally called, the "men." It is always vastly amusing to those familiar with the service to observe the errors in this respect frequently made by the novelist and the playwright.

Personal qualifications have nothing whatever to do with the matter. A soldier may be a gentleman who has enlisted with the purpose of obtaining a commission, yet there can be between him and his officers no social intercourse of any sort, and severe penalties would be inflicted upon the officer who would attempt to disregard the rule.

It might seem that this enforcement of a caste sense would result in much hard feeling on the side of the men. Such, however, is not actually the case. It is taken for granted and recognized as conducive to "good order and military discipline." It is a military regulation like any other and implies no disgrace. Directly a soldier's enlistment is out or directly he rises from the ranks the prohibition is removed.—Delineator.

Roundabout.

The very budding barrister assumed the approved legal look of indisputable superiority.

"Now, my good lady," he observed, shaking an admonitory forefinger at the woman in the witness box, "you do not appreciate the gravity of the question. Endeavor to concentrate what brain power nature has endowed you with and answer me. What relationship does the defendant bear to you?"

"Right-ho!" responded the good lady. "Is father's cousin was my cousin once removed, and 'is mother, marryin' me uncle's only brother."

"My good lady," interrupted the bud despairingly, "I am not here to solve puzzles!"

"Well, I'm blowed!" ejaculated the lady. "You was talkin' jest nah as though you'd cornered most o' the brain pair goin'. If you 'adn't swanked quite so much I'd 'a' told yer plainly an' simply! 'E'se me brother."

THE WET RAIN.

There Are Several Varieties, and All Have Their Whims.

Rain is principally composed of water, but it should not be confused with mining stock.

Rain always comes on Sunday afternoons and wash days.

Wash day may be changed to any day in the week, systematically or indiscriminately, but the rain will come.

Sunday afternoon, however, cannot be changed to any other afternoon. The rain will hold off until you are ready to go driving, and then the word will be passed along the mysterious currents of the air, and a double order of cirrus and cumulus will be hurried in from the west.

Also in the mornin', when you leave home and carry your umbrella and raincoat, the rain will go away and sulk. But if you take heart of the fair sky and leave the umbrella and other trimmings then the rain will wait until you leave the office and then get you. Incidentally it will tick a few grip and rheumatism germs into your system.

Rain is good for the crops, but why it takes you for a crop is hard to understand.

Rain never brought fame to any one except Noah. Probably on the day the flood began he watched the last picnic party drive out of town in a bus, shouting sarcastic things at him through the dust.

There are several varieties of rain, but the one most popular with the weather bureau is called "Probably."

Fair Customer—I want a birthday present for my husband. Dealer—Yes, mum. How would this old clock suit you? Fair Customer—Let me see. I've got a corner in my boudoir that will just do for it! And I've been wanting an old clock for a long time. Yes, that will do!

To Be Noble.

Most of our unhappiness comes about because there is in us a scrap of the infinite that is not satisfied with finite things. There is a longing in the human heart to unfold into a better life. To do and to be noble is the deepest desire of every heart. — Dr. Henry van Dyke.

Those who pursue happiness are fortunate to catch up with content.
