WHY BE BALD
When Parisian Sage is Guaranteed to Stop Falling Hair, or Money Back!
A luxuriant head of hair is God's birthright to every man—to every woman.
If your hair is falling out; if it is splitting; if it is turning gray, if it is full of dandruff, if it is harsh and uncontrollable, then it is diseased, and prompt action should be taken.
Parisian Sage is a real hair restorer; it will darken faded hair; it will stop dandruff in one week by promptly killing the germs that infest the roots of the hair.

Parisian Sage is the most delightful hair dressing in the world; it is pleasant, invigorating and refreshing. It makes the hair soft, beautiful and luxuriant. Wherever Parisian Sage is known, it is the ladies' favorite hair dressing.
We urge all women who desire beautiful hair, to try Parisian Sage. If, after using one bottle, you do not say it is the most delightful hair dressing you have ever used, you can have your money back. The price is only 50 cents a large bottle at Newlin's drug store, or by express, charges prepaid, from Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y. The girl with the Auburn hair on every bottle.

Licensed and Wedded.
Frank Gabhart of Union county, and Gertrude Williams of this county were granted a marriage license this afternoon by "Cupid" Saling. They immediately adjourned to the office of Circuit Judge Bean, where they were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. —Pendleton East Oregonian.

Made in Washington Day.
Seattle, Aug. 8—Special—Saturday, August 27, will be "Made in Washington" Day, and will be celebrated by various commercial organizations as a date for the exploitation of home-made products and wide publicity will be given to the appeal to the public for the support of home industries and the consumption of Washington products in preference to outside goods. In this connection, the recent republican state convention adopted two resolutions, as follows: "That in the new erection of public buildings in this state by the federal government that the representatives and senators in congress, from this state, are requested and urged to use every honorable effort to have specified and used in all such public buildings materials from this state where readily available, whether from forest, mine, quarry, mill, factory or foundry."
"That if in its wisdom the legislature of this state should see fit to authorize the erection and appropriation for any state building that it would help home industry by providing that all material used in the erection of such buildings be from the state of Washington, where readily available. We have the materials; we have the mechanics, whose skill is equal to the best."

Captain Bartlett's Three Cheers.
A series of Revolutionary scenes were given in a Loudon theater some months after the close of that memorable war. On the one side was the English army in full red coated uniform, with every button in its exact place. Opposite them was the American army, composed, as the theater bill stated, of "artisans, cobblers and tinkers," arrayed in their working dress, with buttons of every size and hue. When the curtain dropped, Captain Bartlett of Plymouth, Mass., the captain of a ship then in port, stood up in his seat in the pit and, in a voice as if given from a quarterdeck in a squall, called, "Three cheers for the artisans, cobblers and tinkers who were too much for King George and his red coats," and, with a wave of his bat, he gave these with a will. For a short time there was silence in the theater, followed by an enthusiastic John Bull appreciative cheer for the pluck and assurance of the Yankee captain, who became the lion of the city, receiving invitations to clubs and free tickets to theatrical and other entertainments while he remained in port.
