"Can be depended upon" is an expression we all like to hear, and when it is used in connection with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy it means that the remedy fails to cure diarrhoea, dysentery, bowel complaints. It is pleasant to take equally valuable for children and adults.

FILLED WITH CURIOSITY.

That Was Why He Was Anxiously Waiting Outside the House.

The man was standing behind a tree in front of an apartment house in a cross street when the cop on that beat came potting along on the sidewalk. It was close to midnight, and naturally the cop stopped and looked at the man standing behind the tree.

"Howdy," says the cop, by way of opening conversation.

"You're another," replied the man good naturedly.

"Whatchu doin'—waitin' for somebody?" inquired the brave policeman.

"Nope."

"Just standin' there, hey?"

"You've hit it."

"Live near here, do you?"

"Right in there," says the citizen, jerking his thumb in the direction of the apartment house he was standing in front of.

The cop looked at him thoughtfully for a minute.

"Meby it's none of my business," he says, "and then again meby it is. I don't like to go round buttin' into anybody's private affairs, but tell me, neighbor, what's your graft, anyhow?"

"Well," loosened up the citizen, "if it's a case of me a tellin' you or you croakin' from curiosity right in front of my eyes, I'll tell you how it is—provided it don't go any further. My wife says to me when I started downtown this evenin', 'If you're not home by midnight I'm goin' to pack up and go right back to mother's. So there!'"

"Well," says the cop.

"Well," repeated the citizen, "it's just about midnight now, and I'm like you—I've got curiosity. I'm waitin' here to see if she's goin' to keep her word."

The cop's curiosity ceased at that point, and he walked on down the street whistling, without waiting to see the thing out.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Attending to others' business is certainly worth a salary. Either see that you get it or let them run the job themselves.

Sometimes the difference between a man and a dog is largely in favor of the latter.

Some men seem to be entirely immune from any amount of sense or reason that you may attempt to inject them with.

Poverty is said to be a barren thing, but it breeds discomfort and disease very rapidly.

The Problem.

Mother thinks she'll make a doctor out of Jim.

Father thinks he'd better fill a judge's chair.

Uncle John would mold a preacher out of him.

Really choosing a profession is a care. Cousin May would like to see him grace the state.

Uncle George is sure a soldier's trade would fit.

Charley says that millionaires are all the rage.

For a fine profession that is surely it.

Mother says that able doctors heal the sick.

And are useful to the world in many ways.

Father says the legal trade is still his pick.

For the lawyers have such fine and winning ways.

Uncle John is sure his choice would be the best.

Uncle George is pleading strongly for the gun.

Cousin May is just as certain as the rest. Charley's pick appears to him the only one.

Oh, it's surely lots of trouble picking out a profession for the little coming man!

With a diagram his future life to plan. You may wonder when they all are taking hold.

Why they do not give the lad himself a show.

There's a reason—he is only six weeks old. How is one of tender years like that to know?

While He Waited.

"Are you the girl that took my order?" asked the old grouch as the pretty waitress tripped in under the weight of her load.

"I sure am," replied the girl, who wasn't addicted to slang, but could use it on occasions.

"I want to compliment you on one thing."

"What's that you're giving me now?"

"It is this: You don't look a day older than when you took it."

Cautious.

"You never kissed a girl in your life?"

"Never!"

"You don't know what you are missing."

"Yes, I do."

"What?"

"Microbes."
