Mark Twain's Profanity.
When Mark Twain began to write for the Atlantic Monthly he came willingly under its rules, for with all his willfulness there never was a more biddable man in things you could show him a reason for. He never made the least of that trouble which so abounds for the hapless editor from narrower minded contributors. If you wanted a thing changed, very good, he changed it; if you suggested that a word or a sentence or a paragraph had better be struck out, very good, he struck it out. His proof sheets came back each a veritable "mush of concession," as Emerson says. Now, and then he would try a little stronger language than the Atlantic had stomach for, and once when I sent him a proof I made him observe that I had left out the profanity. He wrote back: "Mrs. Clemens opened that proof and lit into the room with danger in her eye. What profanity? You see, when I read the manuscript to her I skipped that." It was part of his joke to pretend a violence in that gentlest creature which all the more amusingly realized the situation to their friends. W. D. Howells in Harper's Magazine.

Odd Shaving Habits.
It is said that of men who shave themselves not one in fifty can use the razor with both hands, and to this may be added other curious facts about the shaving habits of the average man.

There is the president of a trust company in New York who, he tells his friends, always shaves himself standing in a corner of the room and facing the wall. He was a poor country boy and, like most boys, bought a razor on the sly. There was no mirror in his bedroom and rather than let his people know what he was about he faced the wall and scraped-away by sense of feeling. Once accustomed to this method he never needed a glass.

It Happens.
"How did your husband enjoy his vacation?"
"He is very much alarmed about it."
"How is that?"
"Why, he has come home with an appetite in excess of his income."
St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Give Quick Action.
A. T. Hill reports that A SINGLE DOSE of simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in Alderika, the new German appendicitis remedy, relieves any stomach or bowel trouble. Many La Grande people are being helped.

What is Itch Dirt?

It is the old Anglo-Saxon name for dandruff, and it is a good one. If you have dandruff you have itch dirt, and the little microbes that are part and parcel of dandruff, are working persistently night and day, and sooner or later will reach the very life of your hair and destroy its vitality. Then you'll be bald—bald to stay—for not even the wonderful rejuvenating power of Parisian Sage can grow hair after the hair bulb or root is dead. Parisian Sage cures dandruff. Newlin, the druggist, sells it, recommends it, and guarantees it; only 50 cents a large bottle and your money back if it fails to cure dandruff, falling hair and itching of the scalp. If you do not live near the Newlin drug store, where Parisian Sage is sold, the American makers, the Irons Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y., will send you a bottle for 50 cents, all charges prepaid. There is no hair restorer so good—accept no substitute. The girl with the auburn hair is on every bottle.
