Of the seven wonders of the world probably the most talked about has been the Leaning Tower of Pisa, which, it is now thought, will share the fate of St. Mark's campanile in Venice. It was supposed that the tower was out of perpendicular because so constructed. Now, however, an in-

THE LEANING TOWER OF PISA.
Investigation by a royal commission of experts has not only demolished this antique legend, but, moreover, has revealed the startling fact that unless immediate measures are taken to prevent it the celebrated campanile, with its glorious eight tiered structure of marble colonnades, wherefrom Galilei made his famous experiments on the law of gravitation, is likely to follow the fate of St. Mark's campanile in Venice.

DRUGLESS HEALER LOCATED IN LA GRANDE

COMBINES BEST OF MANY METHODS UNDER HIS SYSTEM

Physical Culturist, Suggestive Therapies, Etc. Used.

Dr. F. D. DeLuryea, the noted healer and teacher, has arrived in La Grande, and taken a cottage at 1425 Adams avenue, where he will treat all chronic and nerve disorders by a scientific method of drugless healing. Dr. DeLuryea teaches physical culture, right living, how to breathe correctly, as breathing is the vital force of life how to develop vitality, strength and physical perfection. Dr. De Luryea has studied the various modes of healing, first through drugs, and later through osteopathy, magnetic healing, Christian science, chiropractic suggestive therapeutics, and believes there is good in all, and has taken what he considers the best points of each of them and combined the result in his scientific method of drugless healing.

The doctor believes that the cure for most all disease lies within ourselves, and if we but exert the power which each and everyone possesses, there can be no disease, as there is only one real disease and that is ill health, broadly speaking. Ill health is weakness manifesting itself now in one part of the body, and now in another. Dr. De Luryea believes that disease or ill health can be cured without the aid of medicine or surgery. In fact that disease, whether physical or mental can be cured through the discipline of our own bodies. Drugs may modify the symptoms of some specific ailment but they will not restore lost health. No matter under what name a disease is classified, in nine cases out of ten it will yield readily to hygienic and rational methods. Consumption for example, is one of the diseases which drugs have failed to cure. But it is gratifying to know in this connection, that in the past few years physicians have been radically changing their method of treating consumption, the most successful of them realizing that cold fresh air stands first as a cure. That instead of being forced to live in a super-heated atmosphere, with even the window cracks and key holes stuffed up to prevent the entrance of the life saving ozone, the patient is now given just the opposite treatment, fresh, cold air, deep breathing, etc. Consumption is only one of the many diseases which can be cured by nature remedies.

Dr. De Luryea treats stomach and bowel disorders, nervous affections, coughs, catarrh, rheumatism, liver, and kidney troubles, obesity bladder affections and all nervous and chronic disorders peculiar to both men and women. Dr. De Luryea also teaches you not only how to get well, but to remain in perfect physical condition.

Medicine is the last resource of those who are unsuccessful. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy on this plan. It loosens the cough, relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and nature is restoring the system to a healthy condition.

A Clever Woman.

Some women are born handsome but through carelessness and inattention grow plain and unattractive.

The clever woman of today is the one who, though born into the world lacking natural beauty, has through keeping abreast of the times, and listening to the voice of reason, turned plainness into beauty.

Beautiful hair is more responsible for handsome women than any one factor, and for that reason every woman should use Parisian Sage, the greatest and quickest acting hair beautifier and rejuvenator in the world.

It gives to dull, faded and lifeless hair a lustre and character that will, in a few days, increase the beauty of any woman.

Parisian Sage, the international hair restorer, does more: it stops falling hair, cures dandruff in two weeks, and immediately stops itching of the scalp.

It is guaranteed by the Newlin Drug Co., to do all these things or money back. Make up your mind today to try Parisian Sage on this liberal basis, and remember there is nothing just as good. 50 cents a large bottle at the Newlin Drug store or by express, all charges prepaid, from Gilmour Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. W. The girl with the auburn hair is on every bottle.

Notice to Contractors.
