TO SPEND HALF MILLION.

Electric Lines to be Built Through Eastern Oregon.

Directors of the Pacific Power & Light Company, now inspecting their holdings in the Northwest, have decided to spend at once something like $500,000 or $800,000 for the construction of 200 miles of electrical transmission lines in Eastern Oregon and Washington, says a Portland paper. This conclusion was reached on the trip through the numerous cities and towns where the huge $7,500,000 power, light and traction syndicate have projects in operation or under way.

That millions of dollars will be poured into this state and Washington as a fore-gone conclusion, according to Portland men who have been with the distinguished party of Eastern capitalists and investors for the past week. They will spend it on such projects and in such territory as the development needs of those localities require. The only limit of the amount to be poured into the Northwest will be the extent to which the great empire's latent possibilities will lend themselves to economic development.

Awful News—Frog Crop Short.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 2.—Epicures all over the country will be pained and grieved to learn that the frog crop this year is short and of a poor quality. Minneapolis is the nation's frog center, and shipments of the hind legs of the Minnesota nightingales are sent from here to cities all over the land. This year the drought has played havoc with the froggies, and they are neither as plump nor as plentiful as in former years.

There are many men in the vicinity of Minneapolis, who devote their entire time and talents to frog culture, one man supplying from forty to 100 dozens a day. One commission merchant buys and ships an average of 1,000 dozen frogs a day.

Re-Open Snake River Road.

M. H. Dougherty, local agent of the O. R. & N. yesterday received word from General Manager J. P. O'Brien to the effect that the train service between Baker City and Snake river, which was inaugurated last Sunday, but immediately called off on account of the failure of the Short Line to connect with it as previously arranged, is to be resumed beginning next Sunday, says the Herald. A coach will be attached to mail train No. 10, and close connection will be made at Huntington with the Northwestern.

Mr. Dougherty was unable to learn yesterday whether it was the intention of the Northwestern to run a train down the river on Sunday, but it is presumed that the company has made arrangements to this effect.
