SPORTING COMMENT AND KINDRED SUBJECTS

The duck law is out. Thirty-five may be shot in one week by one man. This does not hinder a hunter from killing that number in one day.

The Observer today publishes a resume of the changes in the new rules for football, and readers would do well to acquaint themselves with the changes.

New football rule books have been received here and many a student is devoting his spare moments to working out some intricate points in the new rulings.

Jack Hillery has received this week a female setter from the Omaha kennels. The animal is valued at $250, and is said to be as skilled as any in Eastern Oregon.

E. B. Morris, representing the Winchester repeating arms company of New Haven will be in the city next Monday and will remain here until the Elgin shoot. He is an expert blue rock manager.

From now on until the close of the Pacific Coast baseball season the Observer will furnish bulletins every evening of the outcome of the games that day. Portland is winning and many local fans are helping them along with thoughts of encouragement. They will be posted at the Sommer and Foley hotels.

The Observer Gold medal to be put up at a special event in the shoot next week at Elgin has arrived. It is solid gold, of attractive design and will be an ornament to anyone's collection of trophies.

Frank Henshaw, who runs a restaurant on Jefferson avenue is going to take on any corner in a wrestling event at the Labor Day celebration. Henshaw comes from California and has been on many a mat and with a great deal of success. He is in a lightweight class, and it is said that another mat artist is ready to accept the challenge on Monday afternoon.

Football practice will be formally commenced next Monday evening when every aspirant for the squad is requested to meet at the commercial club for rules drill. The squad will be perfectly acquainted with the rules before outdoor practice is inaugurated. All football men of the High school should be present at 7:30 when the new rules will be explained and discussed at some length. There will be no outdoor practice for a week to come.

SPORTING NEWSENTIRE RESUME SPORT PROGRAM OF RULES AT PICNIC

CHANGES MADE IN NEW FOOTBALL RULES MADE CLEAR.

Opportunity for La Grande Fans to Master New Rulings.

The changes in the rules for 1910 must be carefully noted by officials, coaches, captains and players in order that they may fully understand what is expected.

Taking the rules up in order, the first change noted is in the diagram of the field, the longitudinal lines now being omitted, because as the quarter-back may cross the line of scrimmage at any point, and as the forward pass may be thrown over the line at any point, these longitudinal markings are no longer necessary.

The next rule affected is that regarding substitution. A rule has been passed that a player who has been removed from any cause except disqualification or suspension may be returned to the game once at the beginning of any subsequent period.

The game is divided into four periods of fifteen minutes each, sixty minutes in all, with the usual intermission between the second and third periods, but a three-minute intermission only between the first and second and third and fourth periods. During this short intermission of three minutes, no player is allowed on field of play nor may a representative come on the field, except one who looks after the physical condition of the players. At the beginning of the second and fourth periods, the teams change goals, but the possession of the ball, the down, the relative spot of the down, and the distance to be gained all remain the same as at the termination of the preceding period. The teams do not change goals after a try-at-goal following a touchdown, or after a goal from the field, but the side scored upon then has the option of kicking off, or having their opponents kick off.

Crawling has been defined as an attempt to advance the ball by the runner after the ball is declared dead, and is penalized. Seven players of the side holding the ball must be on the line of scrimmage. The player who first receives the ball when it is snapped back may carry it across the line of scrimmage at any point.

The legislation regarding a forward pass should be read over repeatedly by officials, coaches, captains and players in order that it may be thoroughly mastered. First, the lines to be observed should be thoroughly borne in mind. There are two lines of scrimmage, one for each side as formerly, the line passing through the end of the ball. A man to be on the line of scrimmage must be within one foot of this line, but a player to be eligible to receive a forward pass must be at least one yard back of his own line of scrimmage, and no one may receive a forward pass who is not thus one yard back, or occupies the position on the end of the line of scrimmage. There is another imaginary line in addition to this one-yard line, and that is five yards back of the line of scrimmage. No man may make a forward pass, nor may he kick the ball unless he is behind this imaginary five-yard line. Between this line and his scrimmage line he is allowed to neither kick nor make a forward pass. There is still another imaginary line, and that is on the other side of the scrimmage, the defensive. This is a line twenty yards back from the defensive line of scrimmage, and within the space bounded by the scrimmage line and the twenty-yard line. There are here certain restrictions relative to obstruction of opponents which will be found in Rule XVIII. Furthermore, if a forward pass is even touched or fumbled by a player, still no players on the other side may interfere with the opponent until the ball is actually in possession of the player except in an attempt to get at the ball. The players may, however, interfere with opponents who have not crossed their own line of scrimmage. A forward pass is not legal if it goes more than twenty yards beyond the line of scrimmage, but an on-side kick does not become an on-side kick, that is, does not put men on-side when touching the ground, unless it goes at least twenty yards beyond the line of scrimmage. In case of a kick, the players on the defense within the twenty-yard zone must not interfere with the ends, or other players, in any way until these opponents have advanced twenty yards, then the side on the defense may use their hands or arms to push them out of the way, in order to get at the ball, or use their arms close to their bodies in order to obstruct an opponent from coming at the player after it.

Interlocked interference, that is, players of the side having the ball taking hold of each other, or using their hands or arms to grasp their team-mates in any way, is forbidden, and it is also forbidden for any man on the side having possession of the ball to push or pull in any way the man running with the ball.
