TWO MEN FOUND GUILTY

REMMILLARD AND KENNEDY JOINTLY ACCUSED.

Sentence Will be Read Next Friday Morning at 9 O'clock.

L. Remmillard and Dell Kennedy, proprietor and bartender, respectively, in the Remmillard saloon on Adams avenue, were found guilty of having sold intoxicating liquors to Detective Ben Morgan by a verdict reached by the jury which heard the evidence last night. The case was given the jury late last evening, and a verdict was reached during the night, sealed and held until this morning at 9 o'clock. When court convened again the decision was read.

Judge Knowles will name sentences in the case next Friday morning at 9 o'clock.

EVIDENCE IN CASE IS LOST

BROKEN BOTTLE LETS EVIDENCE GO TO WASTE.

Ulrich Lottes Escapes Trial on the Indictments.

A bottle of beer broken in transit from the chemist at the University of Oregon to La Grande, was responsible for the dismissal of one count against Ulrich Lottes this morning when that case was called in circuit court. The prosecution was forced to ask for a dismissal of the indictment because the evidence was spilled. However another indictment was taken up immediately and Mr. Lottes is consequently defendant in the case now under way.

It is said that Lottes will attempt to prove an alibi as it were claiming to have been in Baker City the date on which he is charged with the alleged sale of liquor.

TURTLE SHIPPED IN CAN

SMALL WISCONSIN TURTLE COMES FAR BUT STILL LIVES.

Peculiarly Enough the Tiny Turtle is Not Suffocated.

A mud turtle of the Wisconsin species, reached La Grande this morning in a small airtight tin box, and though it has been locked up in such cramped quarters where no air could reach it for nearly a week, the turtle was apparently in perfect health.

The turtle, diminutive in size, compared to the monsters that are found in the Mississippi valley frequently, was sent to Dave Stewart, Jr., by Kenneth MacIntyre, who formerly lived in Union and Wallowa counties when his parents made their home here. Not long ago they moved to La Crosse, Wis., and there it was that Master Kenneth found his mud turtle. Anxious to satisfy Master Dave's curiosity as to a mud turtle, he placed a small one in an airtight tin box and sent it to La Grande.

It is being cared for today by Mr. Stewart who is rather at a loss to know what to feed it.

"GOING SOME" COMING HERE.

Rex Beach Comedy Will Be Presented Here in the Very Near Future.

"Going Some" that cleverest of all laugh producers will be the attraction at the Stewart at a very near date, when Lawrence & Sandusky will send their extra fine company of players to interpret the comedy which is from the combined pens of Rex Beach and Paul Armstrong. Nothing quite so funny has been evolved in stageland for many a day and the marvelous success of "Going Some" in every metropolitan city on the continent has prompted the present tour with an all star cast and a magnificent array of scenic splendor. The plot of "Going Some" is laid in New Mexico and the local color is furnished by cow boys and college people. It's all fun from start to finish and the play en-
