Long Island Railroad Adopts a Novel Machine.

SAVES BOTH TIME AND MONEY

French Device Turns Out Tickets to Suit Each Passenger-Prints a Record Slip For the Auditing Department Simultaneously.

A machine the use of which may revolutionize the local passenger business of the United States, so far as it affects the sale of tickets and the op-Long Island railroad station in Brooklyn. A. B. Bierck, the auditor of the railroad, who recommended the installation of the machine, said the other day that it has proved successful, and he prophesied the placing of similar machines in other stations not only of the Long Island, but of other railway systems of the United States as well.

The machine is a French invention and for two years has been used on the Northern railroad of France and in all of the stations of the Paris subway. It was while in France two years ago that Mr. Bierck saw the apparatus for the first time, and, coming home, he told the officials of the Long Island railroad that a great saving could be made by the use of similar machines in the United States. A few days ago the first of the machines ever installed in the United States was put in the Flabush avenue terminal in Brooklyn.

Great Money Saver.

Not only does the machine record price, date and destination on the ticket, but it also totals up the day's sales by stations-as, for instance, Woodhaven, 200: Far Rockaway, 100, etc .- and the next morning, or within five minutes after closing if necessary. the auditing department is in possession of the figures, which show exactly what passenger business every station on the road has done during the day. The machine also manufactures every ticket as it is sold, and the saving in printing of tickets alone will amount to thousands of dollars. Last year the Long Island sold 27.000,000 tickets. The regular cost of printing "ther of the same tor tickets is about $1 per thousand. The cost per thousand as manufactured in this machine is about 15 cents. Each machine, it is asserted, can do the work of three ticket agents, and when the agent's day's work is ended, instead of his having to stay behind from one to three hours in order to get together his daily report, that report has already been made out by the machine, and he can go immediately.

Sells Eighty Tickets a Minute.

Mr. Bierck said that he figured that the introduction of the machine would mean a saving of at least 33 1-3 per cent in both the auditing and ticket selling offices. The machine sells tickeration of the auditing departments of ets at the rate of eighty a minute. railways, has been installed in the Mr. Blerck in describing the working of the machine said:

"The machine is composed of a series of printing devices, called, for convenience, blocks, upon one half of which the text to be printed on the ticket is borne and upon the other the text to be printed upon the registration strip or report. In addition, by a system of movable type the date is printed on the reverse side of the

"To make a ticket is simple. Control is secured by the dial bearing the names of the destination stations and the classes of the tickets, in front of which a movable arrow, controlled by a wheel, is placed, the agent moving the wheel until the arrow is opposite the name of the station to which the ticket is desired, and then by a simple pressure of a lever the electric motor is started, which causes the ticket to be printed, cut off and delivered and at the same time makes the necessary entry on the registration strip or re-
