A wireless message from Wellman who is aboard the steamer Trent, received today says: "I am going to cross the Atlantic in a dirigible. Am not disheartened by the failure. ## O. R. & N. EMPLOYEE SHOT

Chinaman at Umatilla Provoked to Use of Gun by Intoxicated White Man.

Umatilla, Ore., Oct. 18—S. Lovelace, a former employe of the O. R. & N. company at this place, was shot twice in the abdomen yesterday afternoon by Sam Kee, owner of the Chinese restaurant at Umatilla. At the time Lovelace was drunk and he had provoked the Chinaman by shooting at him three times, all of the shots missing the chest.

Lovelace has been at Umatilla for two months. He is a Missourian but came to Umatilla from Grants Pass. A few days ago he accused a car checker of having stolen some money from him and he carried a pistol around with him and made threats against the man he accused. The town marshal was notified of the fact that Lovelace was carrying a concealed weapon, but did not take it from him. While partly intoxicated yesterday afternoon Lovelace entered Sam Kee's restaurant and without provocation began firing at the owner. Three shots were fired by Lovelace before the Chinaman returned the fire. Sam Kee had a 44 calibre pistol and he shot twice, each of the bullets hitting Lovelace in the abdomen.

According to the Chinaman's story he had refused to feed a drunken man who came into the restaurant without any money. It was then that Lovelace appeared and ordered him to feed him even though he had no money. This the Chinaman refused to do, whereupon he says Lovelace went out and returned a few minutes later with the gun and began shooting at him. Sam says he immediately ran into his own room, secured a gun and began to return the fire.

YECK GETS HIS REAL ESTATE BACK

COURT HOLDS THAT WOMAN MUST GIVE UP PROPERTY.

Mrs. Yates Evidently Juggled Yeck Out of Property Located in Elgin.

Beware of the ante-marriage agreements if you would keep what you have accumulated and yet a little more. Judge Knowles did not give out this warning today in so many words but one could read it between the lines when he ordered Mrs. Clara Louise Murphy to deed back to E. J. Yeck certain real estate located in Elgin. The case is an interesting one.

In August, 1908, Mrs. Clara Louise Yates came west, not to grow up with the country but to marry one C. J. Yeck, whose age had passed the meridian and tender period. Yeck had a little real estate in Elgin and Mrs. Yates thought it was no more than right for him to enter into an agreement to the effect that if she loved, cared for, nursed and obeyed Mr. Yeck the remainder of his life, she should have the holdings. Convinced that she was right, Yeck set his hand and official seal to a deed, which deed was cached away among private papers to be delivered after the wedding bells had told the story of trans-continental love. The woman played for time before she could don the name of Yeck and it was granted. In some way she got possession of the said deed and had it put on record. From that time on it is said her admiration for Yeck grew less and finally the fires of love ceased to burn. As evidence of this fact Mrs. Clara Louise Yates married P. J. Murphy and threw Yeck overboard. This displeased the man who had owned the Elgin real estate and he demanded redress from the courts. This morning the case was decided in Mrs. Yates' favor and she will get back the deed which was issued by him when love twinkled in the eyes and blood tingled.
