APPLE SHOW IS NEAR

Great Interest Attached to Coming Spokane Show.

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 20 (Special)—Prof. H. E. Van Deman of Washington, D. C., who will preside as chief of the board of five judges at the third National Apple show in Spokane, November 14 to 19, believes the competitions will be keener than ever before for the prizes and premiums of a total value of $20,000. He writes in a letter to Ren H. Rice, secretary and manager of the organization.

"The time for the great national apple show in Spokane is near at hand and the whole western country is in a high state of expectation, and the east as well, to some extent. It is really a national event, because there is to be a bigger and better display of apples than has ever been seen in the history of fruit shows, and it will represent the nation's best products in this line.

"The deepest interest is shown by fruit growers in the making of exhibits for western apple shows and especially those who are preparing as most of them are, to attend the apple show in Spokane. Many of them have been preparing for the contest ever since the last show, and they are determined to win.
