"The Cow and the Moon."

"The Cow and the Moon" probably one of the biggest and massive scenic productions in the line of musical extravaganza that will visit here this season is announced by Manager Steward's representation at the Steward's opera house on Tuesday, Nov. 1.

It is distinctly a show of novelties, coloring of the brightest hues, yet in keeping with their locals, gold and silver showers come one after another, in fact it is said to be a glorious glittering pageant. This, however, merely forms the background for a story of imagination, dealing with earth beings and people from the moon that makes an evening of solid fun and laughter.

The presenting company numbers some forty or more personages headed by that inimitable eccentric comedian, Chas. A. Sellon, who pleased the theatre goers hereabouts so well in that merry musical extravaganza, "The Cat and the Fiddle," on previous occasions. His support includes the Dresden Doll comedienne, Hazel Rice, said to be the most diminutive soubrette on the stage today. Scarcely four feet tall, but perfect in form her cleverness is exciting the most favorable comment. Florence Willis, who is making herself famous for her portrayals of Fairy parts will be the Genl, she also has been seen here before with Mr. Sellon's productions.

Jean Crowther, recently known as the Lady Beautiful of vaudeville, is making her debut in the musical field, superb in figure and gowning of the most exquisite taste and style it is a safe prediction that her title in vaudeville will follow her in her new field for the display of her beauty and talents.

A strong singing chorus, in the smartest of attire is promised, and with some sixteen or more musical numbers, all provided by Carlton Lee Colby, the lovers of terpsichore and song motion will have their fill.

The seats will go on sale next Saturday morning at Van Buren's cigar store.

Much Appendicitis in La Grande.

Many people in La Grande have chronic appendicitis and mistake it for stomach or bowel trouble. If you have wind or gas on the stomach or bowels sour stomach or constipation try simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc. as compounded in Adler-I-ka, the new German appendicitis remedy. A single dose of this simple remedy will relieve you—you will be surprised at the quick action. A. T. HILL.

The Ladies of the Baptist church will hold a cooked food sale at Russel's meat market Saturday, Oct. 29.
