Everybody knows the kind of goods we carry, but nobody has known such prices on them as we are giving in this sale.

Moderate prices being the keynote of our policy, we would not promise you so much unless these bargains were extraordinary. THEY ARE. We have tried to prove this in type, but that is a difficult matter. The goods themselves will prove it conclusively and more easily than anything we might say.

We hope for the attendance of all our regular patrons. We invite also those who have not made our acquaintance to come and see for what little prices really good goods can be sold.

Remember that the quantities in most instances are small, but the prices are smaller still. So don't be late, come early.

Remember we give a liberal discount on everything except rubbers and overalls

MASTER OF SONG IN THE CITY

MISS ELLEN BEACH YAW HERE FOR TONIGHT'S ENGAGEMENT.

Star of Musical World Attracted to Beauties of Local Scenery.

Miss Ellen Beach Yaw, the great exponent of coloratura singing, and winner of the loudest praise from coast to coast, accompanied by her manager, Vere Goldthwaite, Jay Plowe, the clear flutist of the Royal Opera of Berlin, and Mrs. Mary Newman, the pianiste, arrived this morning direct from Spokane, and will appear at the Steward tonight. Miss Yaw and party are quartered at the Foley and during the afternoon were guests of Manager D. H. Steward.

With echoes of unstinted praise from Portland, Seattle, Tacoma, Spokane and other Northwestern towns still ringing through the musical world, Miss Yaw comes to La Grande and her appearance marks another treat in the realms of music which La Grande occasionally, though not often, is accorded.

Miss Yaw is not a pompous prima donna; not the arrogant type as usually are the masters of music—rather a very comely personage, more desirous of discussing her own pet orange farm in Southern California, than parading her own talents in music; more at home with praise for the mountains, the orchards, the attractive valley of the Grande Ronde than she is intent on wearing silks, damasks and rare gems. She stayed at the hotel but little, preferring to see all of the valley possible while here. While her program is largely Italian, French and German, she does nevertheless intersperse considerable English, especially in encores.

Miss Ellen Beach Yaw, the Mistress of Classics from the Realm of Music.

and her set program tonight will be varied with good old fashioned English song lore in which she is particularly winning. Her program shows at a glance that she is an artist of the first water for it includes:

- Le bonheur est chose legere—Saint-Saens, Russian Nightingale...Alableff Miss Yaw, Andante and Scherzo...Ganne Mr. Plowe, Ah! fors' e lui (La Traviata)...Verdi Miss Yaw, Serenade...Kohler Mr. Plowe, Valse...Chopin Mr. Plowe, Cradle Song...Yaw A Rose Child...Yaw Love's Lament...Yaw Mad Scene (Lucia di Lammermoor)...Donizetti (Flute Calligato) Miss Yaw.

At 3:30 this afternoon Miss Yaw visited the high school and listened to the children and pupils sing.

The Seattle Times of October 30th, 1910, says:

"Miss Ellen Beach Yaw, prima donna Soprano, and exponent of the art of coloratura singing pleased a well filled house at the Moore last night in a song recital, the program including several famous arias from operas of the early Italian school as well as works of a more modern character. Miss Yaw was heard by a goodly throng of music lovers, who gave her the heartiest welcome. "Possessed with a remarkable voice as to range and flexibility Miss Yaw is not without musical gifts of high character. Her passing and intonation exhibit at once training of the best kind, and a real musical sense and capacity for expression. In the upper register her voice is quite remarkable for clarity, sweetness and purity, and she has, moreover, technical powers which might well excite the envy of a Sembrich. Her voice is light, it is true and with a truly admirable sentiment. Her best number last night was the great aria "Traviata" in which she took F in alt, with a piercing effect quite in keeping with the remarkable range. Other striking numbers were the "Mad Scene" from Lucia di Lammermoor and MacDowell's "Deserted." Miss Yaw was assisted by Mr. Jay Plowe, flutist, and Mrs. Mary Newman, pianiste. Mr. Plowe is a thorough artist who produces a splendid tone."

1915 GAMES IN FRISCO.

A. G Spalding Will Ask Baseball Commission to Consider Plan.

A plan to have the world's baseball championship series played in San Francisco in 1915 in connection with the Panama exposition being planned for that year has the backing of A. G. Spalding. He will urge favorable consideration of the plan upon the members of the national baseball commission. It is urged that such an arrangement would not only be financially profitable, but would also give many thousands who would not otherwise get the chance an opportunity to see major league teams play.

Two Changes in Baseball Managers.

The season of 1911 will not see so many changes in the big league teams as came about a year ago. In 1909 Philadelphia, Boston and Brooklyn had pilots who lost their jobs when the season ended. This is the first year for Lake, Dooln and Dahlen, and all three have been signed for another campaign. In the American there will be only two new leaders, Hal Chase in New York and another in St. Louis. O'Connor of the Browns is to be relieved of managerial duties.

NEW BOND ISSUE PROVIDED

ADDED TEN THOUSAND ABSOLUTELY NECESSARY IT SEEMS.

Forty Thousand Issue Merely Took Care of Ewer Contract Price.

An additional bond issue of $10,000 will be voted at the next city election according to a resolution which was introduced and passed by the council at its meeting last evening. The issue is to clean up the extra costs of the sewer project, bonds to the amount of $40,000 recently passed by popular vote, being insufficient. The bond issue floated at that time just barely takes care of the contract, but the city has been put to additional expense. Inspectors had to be maintained, and the issue was insufficient to handle the matter at all adequately. Unless the bond issue passes the city will be left in a pretty predicament for there is no fund available on which to draw for this extra expense. The council unanimously passed the resolution to have the $10,000 bond issue placed on the next city election. The council, aside from attending to the regulation ordinance, considered bids and passed three important ordinances regarding the assessment of property on streets already paved. It became evident that the new Second street pipe line, recently completed was not perfect in every respect and steps will be taken to deduct from the amount still due the construction company. The pavement protection ordinance was passed. It is unlawful for any steam engine with corrugated tires to cross the paving without planking and flat tires 2 inches wide must not carry over 5000 pounds and 2 1-2 inch tires must not carry over 8,000 pounds. There are several important provisions in it which will be made known when the ordinance is published in the Observer.

A contract for the construction of board sidewalk on Greenwood from Jefferson to Monroe was let to John Winn at 30 and 20 cents per running foot and yard excavation.

Low prices for the construction of cement sidewalks on Adams avenue from First to Third cropped out in a bid from a Baker City company managed by E. C. Day. One bid of 13, 1-2 and 50 cents, and another for 16 and 50 cents were received for the work, but as it is not definitely known if some of the property owners had made arrangements for individual construction, the contract was not definitely let, but referred to the street committee. Something will have to be done so that the council may know who of the property owners hire their work done, and who are going to leave it to the city to do.

Routine matters occupied the attention of the council until a later hour. C. S. Dunn the new councilman from the third ward was on hand, having qualified at the beginning of the session.

Chenault-Zulauf Wedding.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Watts in Baker City at 5 p. m. Nov. 15th, J. E. Chenault of La Grande and Mrs. Louise E. Zenauf of Baker City were united in marriage, Rev. J. E. Horn officiating. Both parties are well and favorably known in this county and have the best wishes of many friends.
