TAX AMENDMENT IS CARRIED

LATE RETURNS INDICATE LAW HAS BEEN PASSED.

Each County Given Powers to Regulate Its Own Taxations Now.

Compilation of the official vote on the various initiative and referendum measures, as canvassed by the county election boards, reverses the result heretofore announced on the county taxation amendment that appeared under the ballot numbers 326-yes and 327-no. Instead of having been defeated, the complete figures show that the measure has been carried by a majority of 1665.

The principal change made by official returns was in the vote of Multnomah county on this measure. The unofficial but complete tabulations made several days ago indicated that the bill had received an adverse majority of nearly 1,000 votes in Multnomah county. The official figures show that it carried in Multnomah by approximately 2,000.

The amendment carried in the most radical sweeping of three tax amendments submitted. Two that were proposed by the legislative assembly in response to a movement fostered by the State Grange were defeated. These amendments removed the restrictions in the constitution on exempting certain classes of property or on levying a less rate of taxation on one class of property than on another, says a Pendleton paper.

The county tax measure, as it is commonly known, was submitted through the initiative by the labor organizations of the state. It takes from the legislature all power to pass laws regulating taxation or exemptions and gives that power solely to the people, although the legislature may submit such laws for approval or rejection at the polls. Each county is permitted to regulate taxation within its borders as it sees fit. The levying of poll tax is prohibited.

The bill is regarded as having been designed as an entering wedge for "single tax" measures. Under its provisions a county whose voters were so disposed might adopt that system, even though the measure could not muster strength in the state at large to be made a state law.

A Cold Settled in His Kidneys.

This was the experience of Mr. J. T. Pendleton, Ellingham, Ill. "My kidneys and bladder bothered me for some time. Had severe backache, felt all tired out, saw specks floating before my eyes, and my bladder caused me much misery. Finally I caught cold, that settled in my kidneys and I was pretty sick. At that time Foley Kidney Pills were suggested, and I commenced taking them. A few weeks treatment put me back on my feet, stopped the backache and dispelled the bladder misery. The tired feeling left me and my vision cleared. Since then I have recommended Foley Kidney Pills to many of my friends."—Hill's Drug Store.

ROOF GUTTERS A MENACE.

Panama Officials Place a Ban on Roof Gutters—Homes of Mosquitoes.

Washington, November 22 (Special)—The innocent roof gutter of the States, where the sparrows chirp and spring rain drips with musical cadence, is a thing of horror and a menace to human life down on the Isthmus of Panama where the canal is being dug.

In newly constructed houses the roof gutter is eliminated entirely and a decree has just been issued by the governor of Panama empowering the health officers to tear down defective roof gutters if the owners of the houses don't take the initiative and do it themselves.

Defective gutters are those in which pools of water collect in which mosquitoes—the yellow fever standard bearers of tropical climates—may hatch and begin their lives so full of deadly evil.

A few years ago a roof gutter was looked upon as an entirely harmless in the Isthmus of Panama. There were so many pools and swamps and quagmires that the mosquito had most of the world to choose from as an abiding place. But the sanitary sharks narrowed that domain down amazingly once they got to work. The swamps were drained or coated with oil. The pools were dried up, and the quagmires put out of business. Now it is hard for the poor insect to find a home except in some antiquated roof gutter where the water gathers in small pools in which they may find refuge to build a modest domicile and hatch their young.

The inspectors say that roof gutters are bad anywhere and it is possible that they will come under the ban in the United States as soon as the common people—that is, everybody but the doctors—realize that they may be harboring the deadliest kind of malaria at the sill of the gable window.

Knight Errantry.

When Chance, Romance and a brave free lance Kept all the roads of circumstance, Those were the days of gold, With a maiden sweet, With a dragon meet For chaperon, strange knights would tread Upon the lonesome road.

Now, you know few of our stunts go through Just as we really want them to, And we're trembly around the knees, We nearly drop When a strolling cop In the park says: "Spooning has got to stop. So beat it, if you please."

Yes, at times in rhymes we sigh for the slimes Where the wind brings the cadence of chapel chimes, For castles on countless hills, For a maid in distress, (That's the business!) These days all we do is to hook up a dress And settle some little bills. —Smart Set.

His Singular Prejudice.

"What do you consider the loudest crying evils of this country?" flippantly asked the reporter. The militant reformer and sociologist who had come from the other side of the ocean to straighten out the tangles in this crude and uncouth republic did not hesitate a moment. "Your barbarous jails and your half civilized sleeping cars," he roared. "I have been incarcerated in both."—Chicago Tribune.

Advice to the Sibilious.

If your key won't fit the hole, Try, try again. You may strike it, bless your soul! Try, try again. Don't lie down upon the floor Of the porch, beside the door, Softly feel around once more—Try, try again.

If you stumble over chairs, Try, try again. If you fall upon the stairs, Try, try again. If the bed goes hurrying While you try to catch the thing, To your promises nobly cling—Try, try again. —Chicago Record-Herald.

Uncertain.

Cousin Bob—So Arthur proposed last night? Maud—Yes. Cousin Bob—And did you accept him? Maud—I was so awfully excited I don't know whether I accepted him or not. If he comes tonight I did, and if he doesn't I didn't.—Quincy Patriot.

Strong Evidence.

I wouldn't criticize my dad, But I do think That he last evening must have had A bit to drink.

My words about my kin and kith Are very few, But dad was manifestly with A rummy crew.

The flagon evidently passed, I know it for, When dad came in last night he snored Tue Janitor. —Kansas City Journal.
