MARK DAY OF FARM COLLEGES

Semi-Centennial Celebration of the Founding of Agricultural Schools Planned in 1912.

Washington State College, Pullman—A semi-centennial celebration of the founding of the agricultural colleges of the United States is one of the events which the association of these colleges has undertaken and word from Washington to Professor Thatcher announces the date August, 1912. Invitations will be issued by President Taft to send representatives and congress will be petitioned at the next session for an appropriation to finance the jubilee.

The invitations, which will be issued by the president of the United States, will be to attend both the semi-centennial celebration and the tenth session of the international congress of agriculture, which up to this time has never convened outside of Europe. The ninth session takes place at Madrid, Spain, this year.

The year 1912 will mark the fiftieth anniversary of the passage of the Morrill act, providing for state agricultural colleges and the twentieth anniversary of the supplementary Hatch act, which provided for the experiment station. Both acts provided national aid for the maintenance of these institutions. For Washington the state college fulfills the conditions of both acts.

The celebration and the international meeting will both take place at Washington, D. C. At the same time a second international meeting will be held in the United States, the world's congress of applied chemists which will be held in New York City.

Indians Take Biblical Names.
Spokane, Wash., Dec. 8.—"Spokane Indians do not like Biblical names," said J. McWebster, of Fort Spokane, recently.

"If you should be dropped blindfolded into the Spokane Indian reservation you might easily imagine yourself in a Jewish synagogue. You hear Moses speaking to Isaac, Reuben whispering soft words to Judith and possibly Benjamin, Aaron, Levi and Joseph in a heated controversy over money matters.

"When I first took charge of the Spokane and Colville agencies six years ago I thought the Spokane Indians a very religious lot of people but I soon found it was in name only, and that they were not at all satisfied with the names."

Almost the first day, said Captain Webster, an Indian came to him with an interpreter asking to have his name changed. He had a "very bad" name, he said. His name was Benjamin Isaac.

Hundred of Indians have asked to have their names changed and today they are "Tom, Dick and Harry," Biblical characters are becoming scarce.

In the early days when the French Catholic priests were the only white men among the Indians in this country, the natives adopted their old picturesque, descriptive names, like "Good Thunder," "Afraid of a Cow," "Rain in the Face" and so forth, or else French names, but about 25 years ago an evangelist missionary changed all their names and caused the trouble which Captain Webster has had in furnishing common "American" names.
