Corvallis, Dec. 15 (Special)—The home of Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Kerr, 5th and Jackson streets, was the scene of a very beautiful home wedding last night, their eldest daughter, Miss Vesta, being united in marriage to Mr.
Ralph Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs.
J. E. Reynolds, of La Grande. The ceremony was witnessed by relatives of the young couple and fifteen or twenty of the close friends, this being followed by a reception attended by four hundred people of the college and city. Dr. Kerr is president of the Oregon Agricultural college.

The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock, the bridal party taking position as strains of the Mendelssohn wedding march floated from the library, where Captain Harry Beard's orchestra was stationed. The order of procession was as is common, Miss Leona Kerr, sister of the bride, in pink chiffon over pink silk, acting as bridesmaid and Mr. Jay Reynolds, a brother of the groom, as groomsman.
The bride, looking very lovely in a costume of cream marquisette over cream satin with pearl trimming, wearing a tulle veil crowned with California Orange blossoms, and carrying a bouquet of white chrysanthemums and hyacinths, came in leaning upon the arm of her father. In an alcove that had been converted into a bower of vines and white carnations, Dr. J. R. N. Bell, Presbyterian clergyman, voiced impressively the words of the beautiful ring ceremony. As the young people knelt on silken cushions the divine blessing was invoked and after a brief season of congratulations and best wishes, N. R. Moore sang "Because."

At 9 o'clock reception guests arrived and were greeted by a receiving line in which stood Dr. and Mrs. Kerr, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Reynolds of La Grande, the Newlyweds, Miss Leona Kerr, Mr. Jay Reynolds, Dr. J. R. N.
Bell, Prof. and Mrs. J. A. Bexell, Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Moore and Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Woodcock. At the end of the receiving line Mrs. C. M. McKellips presided at a table from which she dispensed small souvenir boxes of wedding cake bearing an embossed monogram. Punch was served by the Misses Gertrude Nolan, Lynette Kerr, Ruth Smith, Helen Sprague, Miss Robinson of Portland and Miss Mabel Withycombe served cake in the dining room. When all the kindly wishes had been given and but a few of the immediate friends remained, the bride's cake was cut. Mr. Eberly member of a local bachelors' club was fortunate enough to discover the ring in his portion, which presages his early accession to the ranks of the benedicts.

The affair was dainty and altogether lovely. The decorations especially were elaborate and beautiful. The spacious home of the Kerrs was literally banked with potted plants, palms and cut flowers. The parlor was in white and green, and in the entrance to the living room hung a "shower" of orange blossoms, fresh from California, were suspended from ribbons, the whole dropping from a bank of smilax, which was also entwined about the door ways. The living room was in red and green, a profusion of the red carnations being utilized, while the dining room was in pink, white and green. Beautiful chrysanthemums and carnations and flowering potted plants made this room very lovely.
The table decorations were of smilax and white hyacinths entwined.
This work was under the supervision of Mr. Flint, of the department of floriculture at O. A. C., assisted by Mrs.
McKellips and was very pleasing in its effect. Throughout the evening the Beard orchestra played appropriate selections and lent much pleasure to the occasion.

The bride is the elder daughter of President and Mrs. W. J. Kerr, young lady of twenty-one years, accomplished, womanly and greatly beloved by those who know her best. She is a graduate of the Agricultural College of Utah and O. A. C. in general science and Domestic science and in both institutions was an active member of the Sorosis Society and other social and literary organizations. Modest, retiring, but with splendid capacity and a very lovable personality.

Mrs. Reynolds is one to make an admirable wife, and the young man of her choice may well consider himself fortunate.

According to plans announced locally Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds will spend some time in Los Angeles and then return to La Grande about January first via Denver and Salt Lake, and will be at home on the Reynolds farm near this city shortly after that date. Mr. Reynolds is one of the scientific farmers of this valley, applying up to date methods acquired at college to his every day methods of farming and in addition to his promising career in a professional way holds a high degree of popularity in La Grande socially and otherwise. Local society circles will welcome Mrs.
Reynolds.

Captain Mrs. Fred Schlike who originated and drilled the local Eastern Star team to such a degree that it is conceded to be the best in the state, announced the team that will do the special drill at the grand lodge in Portland next June. The team is complete and the drill will be practiced faithfully. After the holidays regular work will begin and by the aid of several substitutes who have kindly volunteered, there should be no break in the practicing. The volunteers show their loyalty by offering to work during the winter and not be guaranteed the "plums." A part to be handled with skill and one on which depends much of the success, is the music features. This will be care for by Miss Rinehart. The personnel of the team follows:

Mesdames C. T. Bacon, F. M. Jackson, H. C. Grady, C. W. Noyes, L. H.

Star, Hope Chapter No. 13, is always exceptionally fine program under the direction of Mrs. Geo. Birne next Tuesday. This is to be an open meeting and fifteen cents admission will be charged. A large attendance is desired.

they are required to appear in the

SPORTING NOTES.

going to be for pleasure, and there is not going to be any fighting. If either Langford or Jeanette wants to fight me, they will have to meet on this side where I will get a square deal. As long as I can go along and make money in the theatrical business and as a fight with either Langford or Jeanette would not draw, I can't see any use in agreeing to fight either one of those fellows. Say for me that I will not fight on the other side and I will not agree to meet any one until a man is found who will give me a battle."

When Johnson appeared at O'Connell's gymnasium to take a workout with Monahan several hundred persons were on hand to get a glimpse of the man who so easily defeated Jeffries. Jack made good his promise of putting his protegee through a severe test, and he certainly did and in the third round the negro champion could have put Monahan away with ease. In the first session Johnson remained entirely on the defensive and allowed Monahan to do all the leading, but the sparring partner was unable to land a stiff wallop, so effective was Johnson's defense.

In the second round Jack loosened up a bit and tore into the white fighter with cleverness and speed that astonished all the spectators. Monahan was absolutely helpless before Jack's fusillade of uppercuts and jabs and before the end of the round Johnson had to ease up in his bombardment.
At the beginning of the third round Jack again assumed the defensive, but a minute before the session closed the champion waded into his partner and by the use of his favorite blow, the right uppercut, he all but had Monahan out when time was called.

The rounds were of three minutes duration each, and at the end of the final session Jack was much fresher than his opponent. The champion despite his long layoff, looked good, and his work certainly laid to rest all rumors about his fast life and his verge of going to a sanatorium. The champion said he liked the work, and he asserted he would be a frequent visitor at O'Connell's training quarters.

Wagner to Stick or Retire.

A Pittsburg special says: Hans Wagner, who was for seven different seasons the premier batsman of the National league, will either play with the Pirates again next year or else retire for good on the laurels he has won. Manager Fred Clarke silenced all rumors by this statement before leaving for New York with other Pittsburg club officials to attend the annual meeting of the National league.
He said:

"I will neither sell, trade, or release Wagner; if he ever plays ball again it will be with Pittsburg. Of course, he may not want to play but if he does, he will be throwing dust around the inner field this summer." It, however, is known that there will be a shakeup in the Pirate squad and Clarke admitted it but would not intimate in what quarter it would be made.
