A "Comperupulous" Visitor.

"Uncle Leam" Thompson, the artist of Baker City who puts the ebony hue on the pedal extremities of denizens of that city, is in La Grande today visiting his friend, "Tom" the bootblack. "Uncle" Leam asserts without reservation that all the "comperupulous" in the state of Oregon were not true to their "comperupulous" convictions this year. He also says La Grande shows remarkable and "pernicious" aptitude of being a big town and the old colored man admits that he might invest some of his "predatory" wealth here. "Uncle Leam" is a good Christian man. While his flow of language is out of the ordinary, as will be seen in the foregoing he never forgets his spiritual blessings and delights in telling of the good things a Christian life has done for him.
