IDAHO PLANS TO DOCTOR LAWS

PRIMARY NOT TO THE LIKING OF A MAJORITY.

Former Secretary of State in Idaho Spends a Few Days Here.

After two terms in the secretary of state's office in Idaho, R. (Bob) Lanson, a former Union boy, is in La Grande, the guest of his old-time friend, C. C. Pennington. Mr. Lanson spent two or three years at Union when a youngster and since then has been prominently identified with Republican politics in Idaho.

Commenting on the political situation the former secretary of state said the outcome was much in doubt as regards the present session, as the house and senate are both Republican but not so by large majorities, and of course there is a Democratic executive. Among the things which are deemed sure to receive consideration at the hands of the legislature is the Idaho primary which is not to the liking of a great many in the mine state. It has the 2nd choice features which is not a part of the Oregon law, and then too, the voters do not have to stipulate party affiliations as they do in Oregon. This feature will be changed thinks Mr. Lanson.

Women Lethargic Too.

Women voters show the same lethargy in registering as do the men he says. Idaho has the same trouble as Oregon in this respect, for the voters show great neglect and reticency in registrations. Woman suffrage "cuts little ice" in affairs of the state and except for the fact that they are slow to register, there is practically little difference between now and formerly when the women were not endowed with the ballot rights.

Mr. Lanson will spend a few days here visiting with friends before returning to Boise.

BURNT CORK.

The Paste Used by Minstrel Performers When "Blacking Up."

The popular impression as to the application of burnt cork by minstrel performers and actors in general is that it is rubbed on the face and hands of the player from a cork whose end is charred in a convenient gas jet. This impression is, however, incorrect. The burnt cork used by minstrels and others is the product of the theatrical "paint factories," just as is any other cosmetic or pigment employed by the profession.

One house makes it in the following manner: The corks are placed in three tin vessels, resembling wash boilers, with holes punched in their sides and bottom. Alcohol is sprinkled over the corks, and they are "fired." When the corks have been properly charred they are placed in muslin sacks, which are kneaded in barrels of water. This operation forces the powdered charcoal through the sacks into the water.

When all the charred corks have been worked through the sacks into the water in this way the water is drained through a close canvas sack, and what remains in that sack is ready for the performers. The stuff is put up in cans, from which, when the minstrel is ready to "black up," he takes a little of the black paste in his hands and applies it to his face, neck and sometimes his hands.—New York Herald.

A CURIOUS BIRD.

The Crested Hoatzin When Hatched Has Four Legs.

The crested hoatzin of British Guiana is the only survivor of a certain race of birds most of which are now known only as fossils. The hoatzin inhabits the most secluded forests of South America, and its survival beyond its congeners is doubtless owing to its retiring habits and to the fact that it feeds on wild arum leaves, which give its flesh a most offensive flavor, rendering it unfit for food.

The chief peculiarity of the hoatzin consists in the fact that when it is hatched it possesses four well developed legs. The young birds leave the nest and climb about like monkeys over the adjoining limbs and look more like tree toads than birds.

The modification of the fore limbs begins at once after hatching, when the claws of the digits fall off and the whole clawlike hand begins to flatten and become wing shaped. Feathers soon appear, and before full growth is reached not a vestige remains of the original character.

The adult birds not only have no claws upon their wings, but their thumbs even are so poorly developed that one would hardly suspect that in the nestlings we have the nearest approach to a quadruped found among existing birds.—London Tit-Bits.

Tung Po and Teasmaking. There is but one way of making tea, for—

Unless the water boiling be To pour on water spoils the tea. The teapot itself should be heated very hot before the tea is placed in it and the boiling water poured on. It should be scalding hot water or the leaves will float to the top.

No less authority than Tung Po, the Chinese poet, is quoted for a recipe for teasmaking. He says: "Whenever tea is to be infused take water from a running stream and boil it over a lively fire. It is an old custom to use running water, boiled over a lively fire. That from springs in the hills is said to be best and river water the next, while well water is the worst. A lively fire is a clear, bright charcoal fire. When making an infusion do not boil the water too hastily. At first it begins to sparkle like crabs' eyes, then somewhat like fish's eyes, and lastly it boils up like pearls innumerable springing and waving about. This is the way to boil water."

He Was Considerate. She—I should like that lovely pearl necklace. Look what beauties they are. He—It's better not to have such large pearls, my dear. People always think they are false.—Journal Amusant.

Marriage. "Marriage," said the serious man, "is an education in itself." "Yes," commented old Grouch, "it teaches you what not to do after you have done it."—Boston Transcript.

Summons.

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Union County.

Elsie Quesada, Plaintiff, vs. Juan Quesada, Defendant.

To Juan Quesada, the above-named defendant:

In the Name of the State of Oregon, You are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled Court and suit, on or before the time prescribed in the order directing the publication hereof, to-wit: Six consecutive weeks from the date of the first publication of this summons, which is January 9th, 1911.

And if you fail to appear, answer or otherwise plead within the said time, the Plaintiff will ask the Court for the relief demanded in the complaint, to-wit: For a decree dissolving the bonds of matrimony now existing between said plaintiff and defendant, and granting said plaintiff an absolute decree of divorce, and permitting plaintiff to assume her maiden name, Elsie Wleck.

By virtue of an order of the Hon. J. W. Knowles, Judge of the above-entitled court, this summons is published in the La Grande Daily Observer, a daily newspaper printed and published at La Grande, Union County, Oregon, which order was made and entered on the 9th day of January, 1911.

PLANT PEARS AT IMBLER SOON

PRESENT YEAR TO SEE TEN ACRE PEAR ORCHARD.

A. G. Wilson, in Addition to Planting Big Orchard Builds House.

Imbler, Jan. 9 (Special)—Grande Ronde pear orchards are to receive a substantial addition in acreage next spring when A. G. Wilson, a local orchardist plants 10 acres of land to pear orchards. Mr. Wilson already is an extensive apple grower but will venture into the pear business and if possible make the Imbler country notorious for its pears as well as apples and potatoes.

During the year 1910 Mr. Wilson set out 80 acres to apples aside from building a $2,000 bungalow just east of Imbler and erecting a specially built barn on his farm, all indicating that he is prosperous in his business.
