The First Question Asked

—when buying or renting a house, the ONE question of the modern this way:

Is the house wired for Electricity?

EVERYBODY has come to realize that electric light is not a luxury

Jose Tomorrow Night.

Into the gold of the present theatrical season will come "Silver Threads" to the Steward tomorrow in which Richard J. Jose, the famous contra tenor will make his reappearance after several years absence in Nartin V. Merle's domestic drama of New England life. Merle is best remembered for "The Light Eternal", which has gone on record as the best of all religious plays in recent years. In "Silver Threads" he has fitted Jose with a vehicle that spells success with a capital "S" for it is a play destined for popularity and a long career.

After the surfeit of new thought, graft, persecution and problem plays "Silver Threads" comes as a decided relief. Its homeliness, directness and heart interest all ring true for it is a simple tale simply told.

"Silver Threads" unfolds the story of John Laurie, his brother Ben, and John's two daughters, Ruth and Kathleen. Around the lives of this little family, Merle has entwined a story that is replete with dramatic and comedy situations, and into it he has woven the songs of old—the songs that Jose has made classics.

In Ben Laurie, Jose has found a most congenial role. As the lovable old blacksmith he has created a character that stands alongside of Denman Thompson's famous Old Homestead character and the late Jim Herne's uncle Nat Berry, in "Shore Acres." By his jovial, tender personality, he wins the hearts of his audience, handling his dramatic and comedy scenes with equal ease and ability. In the first act he sings "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," and "Silver Threads Among the Gold," the play being based on the latter song. In the third act he introduces with excellent effect "Abido with Me," and "Daddy."

"I was taken last August with a heard of. The first day of December I got a box of Miona. I took them that afternoon and the next day and haven't had a bit of pain in my stomach since the 2nd of December. Feel well now, and sleep good."—Mrs. M.

Foley Kidney Pills.

Are tonic in action, quick in results. A special medicine for all kidney and bladder disorders. H. M. Beatty, Little Rock, Ark., says, "For two years, I have been troubled with severe kidney trouble. The pains across my back and over my hips were so bad that they almost meant death to me at times. I used several well known kidney remedies which gave me no relief until I used Foley Kidney Pills, and these I can truthfully recommend as they have made me sound and well."

HUMOR OF DEATH FALSE.

Indian Lad Plays Important Part in Gun Scene Over Fair Maiden.

Pendleton, Jan. 16.—"Haven Ross, a Pendleton young man, was reported to be shot and killed, but it is not true," is the opening statement of a letter received yesterday by the East Oregonian from Miss Lena Miller, Big Timber, Montana. She then goes on to chronicle very graphically, in spite of limited familiarity with the king's English as it is spelled, the details of a shooting affair which occurred on New Year's eve at Columbus, Montana, in which the aforementioned Haven Ross and Charles Glen, "a quarter breed boy," were the principals and a young lady by the name of Lucie Mitchell the motive.

The affair, she says, took place at a dance and was directly caused by the evident preference of Miss Mitchell for the company of Ross. The latter, according to the narrator, took the girl in to supper, whereupon the jealous rival entered, slapped the girl in the face with true chivalry and then like a knight of old, challenged the favored suitor to "take it up," at the same time drawing a revolver and backing out the door.

The Pendleton boy, it seems, was equal to the occasion. Quietly slipping into a bedroom he procured a gun, and crawling out a window, walked to the front of the house, where a number of men were endeavoring to pacify the jealous quarter-breed. Both young opened fire at once, Glen shooting three times and Ross twice. Ross escaped uninjured, but Glen fell with a bullet through his left shoulder. However, he is recovering rapidly but has been required to put up $500 bonds to insure his appearance before the court.

Miss Miller appears to be a great admirer of young Ross and would not have Pendleton people believe that he came out second best in the affair.

Brakeman is Injured.

Phillip Guillot, an O.-W. R. & N. brakeman, sustained a bad wrench of the back last night when one of the iron rounds of the ladder leading to the top of the car gave way, precipitating him to the ground. Unable to rise he lay by the side of the track for some time, but was finally able to drag himself to a nearby house where he summoned aid. He was taken to the hospital and Dr. Ringo was called. At first it was thought that his back was broken but an examination showed that it was only severely wrenched.
