LOCAL THEATRES

At the Isis.
One of the greatest rib tickling mirth provoking comedy pictures which has been exhibited in this city for many moons gave the Isis patrons a laugh-terfest last night and will be repeated tonight. That ever popular boy comedian (for such he must be designated) of the Vitagraph company pays a visit to his four maiden aunts who are informed by his fond parents that "he is a good little boy." From substituting vinegar for tea in the family tea pot to throwing from the deck of a steam yacht all the clothing of two aunts which (the clothing) had been drying after an accidental (?) upsetting of a boat in which they (the aunts) had been taking a quiet trip on the briny, are some, not all of his escapades. The climax is reached when the aunts depart for the steam yacht attired in—well go and see it. It is a scream.
