NEW MEN WILL QUALIFY SOON

THREE NEW FACES WILL APPEAR IN COUNCIL FEB. 15.

Last Regular Session of Present Council will be Held This Evening.

Three councilmen will attend a session of that august body tonight for the last time—at least not for another year anyway. True, the old councilmen will have to assemble two weeks hence again to formally turn over their seats at the tables to their successors, but this is the last regular meeting of the old council to transact business. Then, too, a special meeting may be recorded before the next regular meeting before the new councilmen elected in the last election will take office. The short terms this time complete the series of short terms growing out of the change in the fiscal year created by the new charter. President of the council, W. M. Monroe will retire from the First ward representation and give his toga to E. C. Davis. In the second ward E. V. Andrews for many years connected with the council and chairman of the street committee during practically his entire service as councilman, will be succeeded by Claude Mackey. In the third ward, W. J. Church succeeds himself. In the fourth ward Robert Findley will take John Sheak's place at the lawmaking table.

OPENING OF NEW HILL LINE

SERVICE INAUGURATED BETWEEN CLARKE AND MADRAS

Tapping of New Territory in Central Oregon is Realized.

Portland, March 1.—According to official announcement the long heralded opening of railway communication with Central Oregon, by the Hill lines, becomes an accomplished fact today, with the inauguration of passenger and freight traffic service between Clarke, Wash., on the north side of the Columbia river, and Madras, Ore., a little more than 100 miles up the Deschutes valley. The new line opens up a fertile and hitherto undeveloped territory comprising 5,000,000 acres of government land that will be made immediately accessible.

He Didn't Know Them.

The late Rev. Horatio Stebbins of San Francisco was a man of large mind and noble powers, but more familiar with the world of intellectual and scholastic interests than with trivial and timely things. His household was blessed with a charming daughter who grew to tall and beautiful, commanding the admiration of all who saw her.

One day a visitor said to the good doctor: "Doctor, your daughter grows more charming day by day. Why, she's a real Gibson girl."

"Ah, thank you, thank you," replied the doctor in his best manner. When the visitor had gone, turning to his wife the doctor asked, "My dear, who are the Gibson?"—San Francisco Argonaut.

A Change For the Better.

The nine-year-old boy of a Baltimore family who is compelled by his parents to practice daily upon the piano may not be a clever performer, but he has a pretty shrewd notion of the worth of an instrument, as well as a rather mature wit, as is evidenced by an incident in the household not long since.

His father upon returning home from a week's absence heard the lad plugging away at the piano.

"When did you learn that new piece, son?" asked the parent.

"It isn't a new piece, dad," answered the boy. "The piano has been tuned."—Lippincott's.

She Won.

He was a philosopher and a talker. She was a woman of action. They stood together on the bridge and watched a tug that was hauling a long line of barges up the river.

"Look there, my dear," said he. "Such is life. The tug is like the man, working and toiling, while the barges, like the women, are—"

His wife gave him no time to finish the sentence. "I know," she said. "The tug does all the blowing and the barges bear all the burden."

Not So Bad.

"What's the worst you can say about him?"

"He hasn't an honest hair in his head."

"Well, that's bad enough."

"Oh, not so bad as you think. I mean he wears a wig."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

A Dining Hint.

Fletcher says you should "hold your face down" when you are eating, so that your tongue will hang perpendicularly in your mouth. To do this most comfortably get down on your hands and knees when you eat, explains the Chicago Record-Herald.

There is but one virtue—the eternal sacrifice of self.—George Sand

No Apology Necessary.

"I congratulate you most heartily," said the nearsighted guest at the wedding. "on this happy—oh, I beg your pardon! I thought I was speaking to the bridegroom."

"That's all right," the other man replied. "I accept your congratulations. I am the father of the bride."—Chicago Tribune.

Very Lucky.

"I don't get what I deserve for my jokes," wailed the humorist.

"You're lucky," sympathized his friend.—Toledo Blade.
