SEASON BRINGS OUT PLAYERS.

Inter-games have been many.

Bolton, of La Grande, and Richards, of Cove, hold their games at forwards.

Few will disagree with the statement. Bolton is always on the job and no matter how heated floor work is, he never leaves his firing line.

Richards fails to show team work with Reynolds, but has a peculiarly good eye for baskets.

Reynolds, of La Grande, is just blossoming out as a forward and his floor work commands him honors that are unglorified only by his inability to shoot difficult baskets—a feat that will come when he has given the position a better try-out.

He was shifted from guard this year to his real position, and next year will have mastered his new task.

The same is true of Ralston who was switched by the Reynolds transfer, and he too shows wonderful aptitude at guard, which will be perfected with more games, and for this reason, as with Reynolds, fails to command the consideration as Lewinn, of Union. It is by the narrowest margin that both Reynolds and Ralston did not qualify as leaders in their respective positions.

No one disputes Lottes' right to the place against any team in the county or in Eastern Oregon.

Kall—big, strong, active and accurate basket-thrower—is the peer of center in high school circles.

He can outjump anyone in Eastern Oregon, but more than that, acts quicker and guards well and throws accurately—showing just a little more finish in most of these departments than Bohnenkamp, a youngster and still new to the game.

"Big Bill" will command a permanent job next year.

The second team men are easily selected with the exception of one forward position.

Union has Hess and Cove has Hancock, who are both fairly good men to act as teammates to Reynolds, but Crawley must be given credit.

Then comes the all county team. This brings to the front teams from North Powder, Union, Cove, La Grande, Imbler, Summerville and Elgin and from this bunch of players it is not always an easy matter to select the men who made the best performances.

Bolton of La Grande high is given the forwardship again as in the high school line up. He is entitled to it from every respect. There are always many instances in basket ball where "there is lots of time." This doesn't mean hours but seconds and instances like these is where Bolton is consistent and sure. He lacks the brilliancy of some.

His teammate is difficult to pick. Three men appear in the running.

Either Geddes or Childers would displace Lindsey but for one or two facts.

Geddes shifted to guard the last four games, disclosing that he is by far the better suited for the defense than the offensive end of the game, but thereby lost his chances, in a measure, of being a peer at forward.

Childers has a peculiar—and be it said a highly desirable—knack of playing hard ball and doing it without "dirt." He has less fouls called him in his career than any other player. He knows the game, too, but yet, has only appeared in one actual game at home this year.

Lindsey is given the other forward because he rolled up a big bunch of scores early in the season, though he fell down hard at the end. He played all year too, another asset in his favor. With Geddes and Childers both equal to the position, Lindsey gets it on his assistance to the team early in the year and his constancy at the job.

Lottes is another youngster but undisputedly a guard. He played all year and played as good as any with the possible exception of Hollister, who is given a position next to Lottes because of the first five games in which he played. An unfortunate accident put Hollister out of the game in the height of the season, but his showing before that time clearly entitles him to a position. Lottes comes first because he played all year.

Bean of La Grande is backed by several years' experience, a swiftness of foot, accuracy of eye and ability to guard that outdistance Kall of Cove, or Bohnenkamp of La Grande and Wade of Imbler.

Baseball Notes

Nice dope on Manush's hitting is coming from Marlin, Texas. The young Giant looks good.

Chris Mahoney, an extra outfielder with the Boston Red Sox, is said to also be a very clever pitcher.

The world's champions look good to repeat this season, now that Jack Coombs is in line.

Hugh Jennings is trying out Ness and Gainer, two youngsters, for the first base position with the Tigers.

If the school children of St. Louis attain a certain grade of scholarship they will be given free tickets to the Browns' games.

The Washington team will hit the ratters some this season. According to the American League schedule the Senators will travel 10,658 miles.

Umpire Jack Stafford has quit the Eastern League and joined the "rah rabs." He has been engaged to umpire 60 college games during the coming season.

In the Carolina League, Joe Jackson, now with Cleveland, is known as the "shoeless wonder." Joe used to be a pitcher and always worked in his stocking feet.

The new clubhouse of the Chicago Cubs will cost $2,500 and not $14,000, as was first reported. No chickens will be allowed in the new building.

For the first time in a dozen years or more the Boston Nationals will issue season tickets. The price of the little books has been set at $50 a toss.

Birmingham, Falkenburg, Joss, DeMott, Blanding, Krifer, Griggs, Olsen, Mitchell, Marshall and Doane of the Cleveland team, are all former college players.

Billy Hamilton, the former big league star, has resigned his position as manager of the Haverhill team, to become a scout for the Boston Nationals.

Pitcher Jess Baker of the White Sox says his best fooler is the "Fog Ball."

Years ago Miller, the "Fog Horn" catcher, performed in major leagues, and now we have the "Fog Ball" pitcher. T-o-o-t! T-o-o-t!

When Pitcher Wyatt Lee was asked why so many wonderful minor league twirlers failed in the big show, he remarked, "It's this way. The rind their fast balls a mite too slow and their slow balls just a little too fast."
