W. H. TURNER COMING

WILL BE SEEN IN "FATHER AND THE BOYS."

Monday night, March 27, is Night for Appearance Here.

Manager Steward announces the next attraction for Monday night, March 27 and Turner the popular comedian in "Father and the Boys" is the number. Referring to this performance the Helena Daily Independent remarks:

William H. Turner, supported by a capable company, appeared last evening at the Helena theatre in "Father and the Boys," one of the most delightful comedies that George Ade has written. Mr. Turner acquitted himself with credit in playing the character of "Father," which William H. Crane created, but Mr. Turner plays it far better than did Mr. Crane.

The play was presented here last year by Mr. Crane, consequently the story is fairly well known. Mr. Turner, for a number of years appeared in the part of David Harum, which gave him a national reputation as a character-actor. His interpretation of the part of "Father" is excellent. All of his associates were quite up to the standard, therefore the performance in almost every particular was about as good as is generally seen by any traveling organization.
