CHRISTIANSEN BOY RESTS WELL.

Skull Cut by Sharp Ax in Hands of a Playmate Yesterday Afternoon.

Clare Christiansen, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Christiansen, who was yesterday quite severely injured by a sharp hand ax wielded by a playmate, is resting well today and his physician, Dr. Hubbard, feels confident of recovery. The gash went through the hat, cut the scalp and pierced the skull in a clean-cut manner, though it missed the lining of the brain. The bone was parted, exposing the brain and its lining. The youngster is doing remarkably well today, however.

Classified Advertising

Does 'Em All Good.

The advantages to be derived from the classified columns of the Evening Observer are becoming well known. A. L. Rice of Imbler recently spent $1.75 in this column and closed a deal representing more than a thousand dollars. Some La Grande business men were offered $1,000 for a piece of property and they decided to advertise it first. They spent $2.50 in the classified column and sold the property for $200 more than they were first offered. One lady phoned in recently saying, "Take out my rooms for rent ad. People are driving me crazy making inquiries and my house has been full since the second day I ran the ad." Haven't you got something you would like to trade; some property you want to sell? Remember there is nothing too small to advertise in this column and nothing too large. The price is a cent a word each day. Try it.
